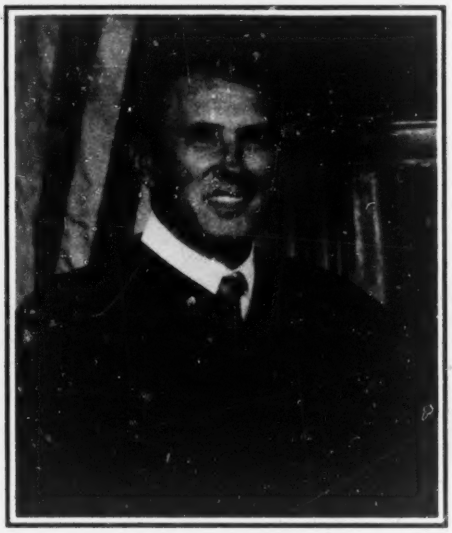
from the Chief Justice



The Arizona court system stands at the door of a new decade — new responsibilities, new opportunities, and new growth.

Despite the new growth, believe it or not, I am excited about the potential future of the Arizona court system.

Admittedly, the court system is experiencing growing pains - an increasing population means more traffic violations, higher caseloads. The challenge becomes how to manage the system in a manner which promotes the administration of justice with the least possible cost and delay while providing fair and equal treatment.

Yet, while there are challenges, there are also great opportunities. We seized an opportunity in early 1988 and established the Commission on the Courts to analyze our court system, its strength and its weaknesses, and to develop a plan for the future.

During the past year we completed our first step toward the future of the Arizona court system as the commission completed its work and submitted a final report to the Supreme Court. The commission's report contained 50 recommendations to improve the system of justice in Arizona.

Until the Commission on the Courts project, there had been no overall analysis of the Arizona judicial system in over a quarter of a century. Not since passage of the Modern Courts Amendment in 1960 has there been any major systemwide change in the Arizona judicial system.

The work of the commission is exceedingly important and will have far reaching effects. It represents thousands of hours of work contributed by members of the commission and its task forces, staff, and experts brought in from around the country. We all owe a debt of gratitude to these individuals who sacrificed their personal time to help shape a vision of Arizona's court system for the future.

The Supreme Court received the recommendations of the Commission on the Courts in July 1989. The Justices studied and acted on all 50 recommendations. I am proud of the actions of the Court. It has adopted 28 of the recommendations as submitted, adopted 16 of the recommendations with modifications, deferred five for further study and possible future action, and rejected only a part of one of the recommendations. That's really a rather remarkable accomplishment considering the magnitude of the recommendations.

"During the past year we completed our first step toward the future of the Arizona court system...."

The recommendations adopted, if fully implemented, could change the face of justice greatly in Arizona.

These actions would:

- make the courts more accessible to all people;
- provide additional tools in deciding cases (different types of dispute resolution);
- upgrade qualifications of all judges;
- use proven merit selection procedures for all judges in the larger counties;
- provide a better system to evaluate the performance of judges;
- establish a council to provide for administrative policy and management of the courts;
- give judges more technical assistance with which to do their work;
- streamline and trim down the complicated discovery rules so frequently abused;
- redefine lawyers' roles in the system and with their clients;
- give greater emphasis to addressing problems in the family;
- make the judiciary a more integrated, better managed system.

As a result our court system has a plan to brace itself for the challenges we face now and those just a decade away.

But this is just the first step.

Now that the Court has acted on the Commission on the Courts' recommendations, it is time to initiate implementation efforts to advance these proposals and to begin to study and act further on the ones that have been deferred. The Court will choose from the commission members and others in our community an implementation committee, which will consult with experts and begin the process of drafting rules, statutes, and, if need be, constitutional amendments to make these dreams realities.

Local implementation teams will be created in each county as part of the implementation efforts. Teams may range from three to ten members, depending upon the size of the county. The teams will assist the committee by acting as local resources, disseminating information, and being a liaison for community issues.

> "The Court will choose... an implementation committee, which will consult with experts and begin the process ... to make these dreams realities."

The Court has received a grant from the State Justice Institute for funding to go forward into the implementation stage of this project.

The time frame for change is indefinite; the process will be different depending upon the proposal. We need input and support from the legislature, special interest groups, and the people of Arizona to achieve the best possible court system for our state. I anticipate that some recommendations may be accomplished by court rule in one to two years. Others may take longer, such as reorganizing the courts by constitutional amendment and changing the method of financing the court system. A good estimate may be two to ten years to make these changes. But we must remember it has been more than 25 years since the last major reshaping of our judicial system occurred.

The Commission on the Courts has created a climate for change, but aside from the work of the commission, we made other strides in FY 89 to improve our court system. With the help of the legislature, we were able to set up mechanisms to help streamline judicial procedures and automate the courts throughout the state. I am pleased with these advancements we have made in improving the quality of justice.

"With the help of the legislature, we were able to set up mechanisms to help streamline judicial procedures and automate the courts throughout the state."

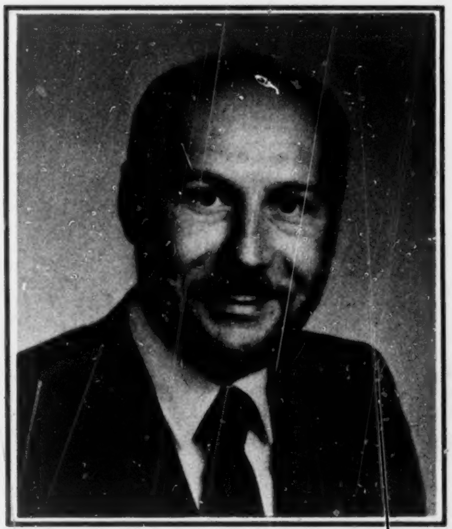
Also in 1989, we were able to advance the concerns of victims and witnesses in the courtroom. As a result of public hearings conducted by the Supreme Court and comments received throughout the year, the Court established Rule 39, Rules of Criminal Procedure and amended Rule 9.3. The precedent-setting Rule 39 grants new rights to victims. Rule 9.3, which prohibited victims from the courtroom at all times except to testify, now opens the court to victims after testimony. The Court felt that the establishment of the new rules balanced the interests of victims in being treated with dignity and compassion with the interests of society as a whole in preserving the truth-seeking function of judicial proceedings.

I feel that our accomplishments of the past year are reflective of the Arizona court system's adaptability to change and growth. I am proud that we have built a foundation to better manage our system and to respond to the people who are served by it.

I feel that Arizona has the greatest potential of any state to develop a highly effective judiciary. Whether the people of the state and the legislature will want to actualize that vision remains to be seen. I have confidence they will.

Frank X. Gordon, Jr.

Administrative Director's Report



I am pleased to submit Arizona's FY 89 Judicial Report.

My appreciation is extended to all the individuals who contributed to the publication of this report: the judges and staff of each court who collect the statistical data reported here, the staff of the Administrative Office, and the printer in the Supreme Court Clerk's Office.

Chief Justice Gordon has expressed his thoughts about the challenges the judiciary may face in the next decade. Certainly, the work of the Commission on the Courts, which is described on pages 6-13, will have a major impact on the Administrative Office of the Courts.

While we're all in favor of progress, we must be accepting of change to achieve progress. The Administrative Office has already begun changing in ways that will advance the commission's recommendations.

During the past year, we established two new areas within the Administrative Office that will play a significant role in carrying out the plan envisioned by the commission.

A research unit was formed to respond to an increasing demand for research and statistical information on the operations and activities of Arizona courts. The research unit will provide the data necessary to identify, analyze, and interpret the fiscal and administrative impact of the commission's recommendations on the judicial system and other agencies.

As the commission report states, "One of the biggest challenges faced by the judicial branch as it approaches the year 2000 is to modernize its practices and its technology...." This year saw the passage of legislation creating a judicial collection enhancement fund that is managed by the new judicial collection enhancement division of my office. Monies from this program are available to all courts to streamline the collection of fines and fees and the administration of court matters. I am especially excited about the potential this program offers for modernizing and improving the court system over the next several years. With the establishment of a long-term and stable funding source, we can begin to realize our dream of a fully automated state court system, which will serve to enhance the productivity of our courts.

I feel that in many ways the commission's recommendations parallel the general direction the court system has been taking for some time. We have been moving toward greater efficiency and increased accessibility. What this tells us is that we share a common goal — to provide a quality system of justice for the people of Arizona.

During the next several years, our task will be to turn the commission's creativity into reality. What this means is more change in the years to come. I look forward, with both anxiety and eagerness, to a new decade and the challenges ahead.

Report on the Commission on the Courts

Chief Justice Frank X. Gordon, Jr. appointed a 34-member Commission on the Courts in June 1988 to create a process and environment to facilitate the modernization and integration of the Arizona judicial system into the 21st century.

The four points of this Native American symbol represent the interrelated task forces comprising the Commission on the Courts.

In pursuit of this goal, the Commission focused on four objectives: (1) to create a long-range plan for the judiciary through the year 2000, (2) to prepare specific action-oriented recommendations and strategies for change, (3) to provide the Supreme Court with a process and structure for coordinating and implementing change, and (4) to establish a receptive environment for change both within and outside the judicial system.

To accomplish its work, the Commission established four task forces: Court Organization and Administration, Court Productivity, Dispute Resolution, and Children and Families in the Courts. Each task force was chaired by a Commission member and included six other Commission members. Task force membership was rounded out by individuals from the legal system, courts, business community, and general public who had particular interest and expertise in the judicial system. In all, over 150 people served on the task forces and the Commission. Countless others presented their views at public hearings held throughout the state and at task force meetings.

The 18-month project was partially funded by a grant from the State Justice Institute. Analysts hired to provide staff support to the task forces examined the existing court system, researched issues, and analyzed to what extent programs and procedures that have proven successful in other states might be used in Arizona. Technical assistance was provided by the National Center for State Courts.

After evaluating the current system and considering alternatives, each task force prepared a report with its recommendations for change and plans for implementing the recommendations. In all, 80 recommendations were submitted to the Commission for consideration. After a review of the task force reports and recommendations, the Commission presented a draft report for public response. The result of this process was a final Commission report with 50 recommendations and 13 issues for further study, which was presented to the Supreme Court in July for approval.

The Commission on the Courts' Report was the topic of the opening session at the Annual Judicial Conference held in September 1989. Over 350 judges discussed their major areas of support and concern with colleagues and members of the Supreme Court, who considered the comments during deliberations on the recommendations.

> "After consideration of each recommendation, the Supreme Court approved 28 as submitted by the Commission, accepted 16 with modifications, deferred 5 . . . and rejected 1 . . . ."

After consideration of each recommendation, the Supreme Court approved 28 as submitted by the Commission, accepted 16 with modifications, deferred 5 for further study, and rejected one recommendation. All 14 issues proposed by the Commission for further study were accepted.

The Commission recommendations directly impact the judicial system through organizational, management, staffing, procedural, and fiscal change. Other recommendations for the State Bar of Arizona and the executive branch also impact the quality and accessibility of justice. The following is a brief summary of the recommendations approved by the Supreme Court.

Organizing the System

The organization of the courts can help or hinder the provision of justice in individual cases and the establishment of a just system for all citizens. The Commission recommended a new structure that they believe will serve the courts' basic task of determining cases justly, promptly, and economically.

Article 6, Section 1, of the Arizona Constitution calls for an integrated judicial department consisting of the Supreme Court, intermediate appellate courts as may be provided by law, a superior court, such courts inferior to the superior court as may be provided by law, and justice courts. The most significant problems with the current trial court system are its fragmentation and duplication of administrative resources, time-consuming de novo trials, overlapping jurisdictions, and lack of uniformity in practices and procedures. The Commission recommended that the Arizona court system have only three levels: a Supreme Court, a Court of Appeals, and a District Court.

> "The organization of the courts can help or hinder the provision of justice in individual cases . . . ."

The district court, or unified trial court concept, would reorganize the three separate trial courts in each county into a unified district court consisting of two levels of judges in less populous districts and three levels of judges in more populous districts. The jurisdiction of each district court level would be uniform throughout the state and not overlap among or between levels. To eliminate the redundancy and expense of de novo trials, all matters originating at any level of the district court would be heard on the record. The Court recognized that the concept of a district court would be desirable for all of Arizona, but felt the most pressing need for an integrated trial court was in Maricopa and Pima counties, where over three-fourths of the total population of the state are located and 77% of the total annual court filings occur. The Court approved the district court concept for these two counties and for other counties that choose a district court system by popular election or grow in population to over 150,000.

Managing the System

The recommendations on managing the system picture a judicial system that is served by managers and a management system that is defined, coherent, accountable, and responsive to the growth expected in Arizona.

Although the state's constitution authorizes the Chief Justice to exercise administrative supervision over all the courts, the current court organization and structure have made this role difficult to fulfill. There are 184 courts operating, to a large extent, independently of each other. The Commission recommended that a judicial council be constitutionally created to provide: (l) central direction for the administration of all courts, (2) uniformity in court operations, and (3) coordination of court services. The council would be separate from the Supreme Court, but subject to its overview. The Court agreed in concept to a judicial council, but felt that initially the existing Council on Judicial Administration (COJA) could be refashioned by administrative order to do the judicial council's work. This will allow the Court flexibility to experiment with delegation of duties while retaining the ability to change as appropriate.

Staffing the System

Selecting judges and court personnel is the most important aspect of establishing and maintaining a court system. Without capable judges and staff, the Arizona judiciary will be unable to respond to the demands of the next century.

The Commission believed that the current qualifications for Arizona judges are too low for the significant responsibility these persons assume. The recommendation was to increase qualifications for various levels of judgeships to be more in line with the responsibilities of the judiciary and to require that all judges attend a course on attorney and judicial professionalism at least once every three years; the Court approved the recommendation for all judges statewide.

To institute a formal evaluation program for all judges, the Commission recommended that the Supreme Court create a Commission on Judicial Performance Evaluation. In addition, the Commission recommended that the merit selection system currently used for general jurisdiction trial courts in Maricopa and Pima counties should apply to all trial court judges statewide. Current judicial officers would be grandfathered into this system and thereafter be subject to the evaluation and retention election process. The Supreme Court, consistent with their previous actions, approved the evaluation proposal and merit selection for judges in the counties in which the district court system exists.

Cases of judicial misconduct are handled by the Commission on Judicial Conduct, which has limited funding and staff. Adequate funding has been proposed for this commission to allow it to enhance the professionalism of the judiciary, increase its visibility in the community, and extend its staff services to the Supreme Court's Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee.

Three proposals concerning nonjudicial personnel were developed. Noting that the responsibilities of the clerk of the superior court are solely administrative, the Commission recommended that the position should not be an elected position and that the responsibilities of the clerk should be carried out under the direction of the court administrator or chief judge. The elected position of constable was also recommended for elimination; the constable's responsibilities would be assumed by the sheriff, court staff, private process servers, or a combination thereof. The Court approved the elimination of both as elected positions in counties using the district court system.

"Selecting judges and court personnel is the most important aspect of establishing and maintaning a court system."

In light of the increasing complexity of many cases, it is difficult for judges to thoroughly research the many important legal questions raised in the course of litigation. The Commission recommended, and the Supreme Court endorsed, that a permanent, centralized pool of law clerks be created to assist judges.

Resolving Disputes

The adversary process with its formal and fairly rigorous rules of evidence has served the common law system of justice well for hundreds of years, but it is not the only way to resolve disputes. The judicial system must be open to alternative dispute resolution (ADR) approaches.

The purpose of ADR is not to replace the civil justice system, but to provide parties with alternative forums or means more appropriate to their disputes. As one scholar declared, the purpose of ADR is to "fit the forum to the fuss." Because not all courts in the state are congested and experience excessive delay, Arizona courts should have authority to experiment with ADR programs best suited to their needs and circumstances. The Court agreed and stated that all courts should establish innovative ADR programs.

"The adversary process . . . is not the only way to resolve disputes."

The Commission further proposed that the effectiveness of court-annexed arbitration should be enhanced by a number of conditions. For example, arbitrable cases should be identified early in the process when parties file their complaint or answer, and nonlawyer arbitrators should be used in cases claiming damages under $5,000. The Court amended the requirement that attorneys must accept arbitrator appointments and approved expansion of the types of cases subject to arbitration.

In examining medical malpractice cases, the Commission proposed that such cases should be subject to the ADR techniques already available under court rules, such as mandatory settlement conferences. The Court has already commenced modifications of its procedural and discovery rules to accomplish some of the purposes of this recommendation.

Proposals for submission to the legislature were developed to establish confidentiality for communications during mediation, codify existing arbitral immunity under case law, and establish a state Office of Public Dispute Resolution.

Enhancing Productivity

One of the biggest challenges faced by the judicial branch is to modernize its practices and technology and to prepare for the on-going dramatic impact of technological advances.

The Commission recommended that the Supreme Court, in consultation with district court judges, adopt caseflow management techniques and that the administrative and case management authority of chief judges be increased. The Court agreed, modifying the proposal to agree with the district court concept and noting that the independence of individual judges must continue to be preserved. Caseflow management techniques related to appellate court productivity were also recommended.

"One of the biggest challenges faced by the judicial branch is to modernize its practices and technology . . . ."

To help realize the Commission's vision of courts and the legal system in the future, the Commission asked that the members of the State Bar of Arizona recommit themselves to the law as a profession rather than a vocation. As a result, several proposals affecting the Bar were developed, ranging from the societal and professional responsibilities of lawyers to lawyer discipline. The Commission identified discovery abuse as one way in which the conduct of lawyers has contributed to the delay and excessive cost in the resolution of civil disputes, and it recommended that the court control and manage discovery in civil cases from the outset.

Several recommendations that impact the entire judicial system were proposed. One example relates to landlord-tenant disputes. The parties' right to trial by jury within a short timeframe can disrupt a court's calendar. The Commission proposed that special judges or, as the Court approved, specially-assigned judges hear these cases to expedite matters.

Attempts have been made in the past to encourage settlement of civil cases prior to substantial use of litigant, attorney, and court resources. In order to reduce the economic incentive for defendants to postpone settlement negotiations and prolong litigation, the Commission recommended that legislation be enacted to provide prejudgment interest on compensatory damages in all civil cases where the claim is for unliquidated damages.

The Commission further proposed that the Supreme Court adopt a rule permitting bilateral offers of judgment in civil cases as the current rule only permits an offer of judgment by the defendant. Noting that the State Bar has proposed a similar rule, the Supreme Court approved this recommendation as submitted.

Lastly, the Commission recognized the diversity of needs among the various courts and felt that technological solutions must be tailored to each jurisdiction. This will require a close partnership between the Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) and local courts. The Commission stated that the establishment of a permanent commission on court automation is critical to formation of the workable organizational structure necessary to implement automation projects, and it further directed the AOC to provide state-of-the-art technologies in courts where needed.

"Today's courts are an integral part of society's effort to control crime and punish criminals."

Issues Affecting the Criminal Justice System

Today's courts are an integral part of society's effort to control crime and punish criminals. Many of the proposed changes discussed previously will help the courts perform this role more effectively, but there remain issues unique to criminal law, which the Commission addressed in order to make the courts more effective components of the criminal justice system.

The Commission proposed that the Arizona Rules of Criminal Procedure be amended to give victims and witnesses more protection and control over their participation in pretrial proceedings. Interested in making the system as free from trauma to victims and witnesses as possible, the Supreme Court had also been examining the rules of criminal procedure. As a result, the Court enacted Rule 39, which gives victims additional rights regarding pretrial interviews and depositions, and amended Rule 9.3, which deals with the presence of witnesses in the courtroom.

The Commission examined the ways in which the criminal justice system treats juveniles who have been convicted as adults. The result was a proposal to develop a youthful offender program as a sentencing alternative for juveniles who have been transferred to and convicted in adult court. Treatment and rehabilitative services would be offered to offenders who have been specifically identified as suitable for such services and who have a chance for successful treatment and rehabilitation prior to their 21st birthday.

Lastly, doing justice in the justice of the peace and municipal courts is made difficult by the large caseloads. The Commission recommended that case volume issues be addressed through uniform enforcement of the Arizona Rules of Civil Procedure and the use of standardized forms and procedures.

Legal Needs of Children and Families

The judicial system of the 21st century must reinforce society's interest in a sound family structure and be able to help children become productive citizens. Because decisions concerning children have such far-reaching effects, the Commission recommended improvements in the quality and quantity of judicial education and legal resources and a mechanism to ensure judicial continuity in family law matters.

The court process for dependency actions is complex. The process should be changed to improve the timeliness of decisions and reduce the need for direct judicial involvement. Juvenile dependency, incorrigibility, and delinquency cases should be screened for referral to community or court-annexed mediation programs. The Commission also recommended that mediation be introduced as a regular part of juvenile court proceedings.

> "The juvenile justice system should emphasize early crime prevention and intervention programs . . . ."

The juvenile justice system should emphasize early crime prevention and intervention programs for at-risk youths and those already in trouble with the law. The Commission recommended that community-based and institutional treatment resources be made available to the court, the Department of Corrections, and the community.

Three recommendations focused on family issues. One proposal recommended that expedited procedures be established for domestic relations cases and that such disputes be resolved through mediation wherever possible. The Commission also requested that the Supreme Court develop policies, procedures, and court rules that serve to deter domestic violence and to develop guidelines for the treatment of domestic relations matters where domestic violence is an issue. These recommendations are tied together in a proposal for adoption of an Arizona Family Code consolidating all statutes impacting children and families.

Informing the Public

Access to the courts is critical to the mission and image of the judicial department. More and more citizens are turning to the court to resolve their disputes. Courts have an obligation to educate citizens about the judicial system and to create an environment in which courts are responsive to the needs of society.

Citizens throughout the state should have access to full court services at courthouses located near their homes, at least on a rotating or circuit-riding basis. Further, the conduct of court business should be extended beyond traditional business hours to include times more convenient for the public. Public education programs to improve accessibility increase the judicial system's responsiveness and create a well-informed community.

Fiscal Issues

> "Providing sufficient funding for Arizona's judicial system is a problem of major importance in this time of fiscal and budgetary restraint."

Providing sufficient funding for Arizona's judicial system is a problem of major importance in this time of fiscal and budgetary restraint. A challenge of the future will be to create and maintain a court system that is adequately and equitably funded throughout Arizona.

In FY 88, the total cost of the Arizona judiciary with regard to maintenance and operations was $175 million. Because the state is responsible for only 25% of that total funding, the courts are required to compete for funding with other local government programs and necessities. In theory, equal services are available at courts throughout the state. In practice, our fragmented funding approach results in disparity in resources and thus in the services provided to citizens throughout the state. The Commission recommended that the maintenance and operations of the entire court system be state funded by 1995. Judicial salaries should also be increased to a level commensurate with the responsibilities of the office to ensure that the state attracts and retains the best possible judges. Enhancing court revenues through increased filing and usage fees will be studied by the Court.

Recognizing the needs of various courts, specific long-range funding proposals and revenues for those proposals must be developed. Automation requires consistent funding in order to develop systems and communication networks. The Commission recommended that the Supreme Court develop a statewide, long-term funding proposal for technology.

Recommendations Deferred For Further Study

The Supreme Court deferred five recommendations for further study:

- The Supreme Court should be increased to a total of seven justices;
- Management of the judiciary should be the responsibility of the Chief Justice and state court executive on the state level, and the chief district judge and district court executive on the local level;
- The Supreme Court should adopt the American Bar Association's trial and appellate court case processing time standards;
- The standard for granting motions for summary judgment should be redefined to encourage disposition of patently untenable claims or defenses; and
- Changes should be made in post-conviction proceedings undertaken pursuant to Rule 32 of the Arizona Rules of Criminal Procedure to streamline the avenue for review and provide a time limit for filing petitions for post-conviction relief.

Implementation

What happens next? The State Justice Institute awarded the Court a 24-month, $185,000 grant to partially cover the expenses of implementing the Commission's recommendations. A committee will be appointed to develop a structure and coordinate implementation efforts, assessing the fiscal, political, and administrative ramifications of each recommendation. Local implementation teams will be established in each county to assist in the dissemination of information to the community, facilitate local response and feedback to issues, and coordinate local education and training programs.

"A committee will be appointed to develop a structure and coordinate implementation efforts . . ."

The majority of the recommendations can be implemented through court rule change; others may require statutory and/or constitutional amendment. Given the enormity of change propounded, it is likely that implementation of some proposals may take several years to achieve. In the end, the judiciary should be able to resolve disputes more effectively, have the structure and flexibility necessary to respond to the growing demands placed on it, and be more accessible to all citizens.

Issues For Further Study

The 50 recommendations proposed by the Commission met their goal of developing a long-range plan for the state's judicial system. While concerns were limited to those that could most productively be examined within the timeframe of the Commission's work, this did not reflect a lack of concern about other issues affecting the court system. The Commission identified, and the Supreme Court approved, the following 14 issues for futher study.

> ". . . the Supreme Court approved the following 14 issues for further study."

Court Organization, Management, and Staffing Issues:

- Feasibility of creating a unified family court system
- Evaluation of the condition and location of court facilities
- Analysis of the sufficiency and allocation of judicial resources
- Consolidation of the divisions of the Court of Appeals
- Review of the focus and responsibilities of the Administrative Office of the Courts
- Creation of an Arizona Judicial College
- Study of the alternatives to current staffing patterns for court reporters and bailiffs
- Examination of the profession of court interpreters in all judicial forums

Court Productivity Issues:

- Review of the Arizona Rules of Criminal Procedure governing peremptory challenge of judges
- Feasibility of establishing administrative law judges

Criminal Justice Issues:

- Simplification of the Arizona Criminal Code classification system
- Analysis of juveniles tranferred to adult court for prosecution

Children and Family Issues:

- Examination of the policies regarding the testimony of children who are victims of crime
- Review of domestic violence arrest policies throughout the state

The Judicial Branch of Government

The judicial power shall be vested in an integrated judicial department consisting of a supreme court, such intermediate appellate courts as may be provided by law, a superior court, such courts inferior to the superior court as may be provided by law, and justice courts. Arizona Constitution, Article VI, Sec. 1.

The Supreme Court

The Arizona Supreme Court, which consists of five justices, has administrative authority over all courts in the state. The Chief Justice, who is elected by the other justices for a five-year term, is responsible for exercising the Court's supervisory power. To assist in carrying out its various responsibilities, the Court appoints the Administrative Director of the Courts, the Clerk of the Supreme Court, law clerks, secretarial and clerical staff, and a central staff of attorneys.

The Supreme Court's constitutional jurisdiction includes appellate review, the issuance of extraordinary writs such as habeas corpus, and the power to make rules governing procedural matters in all the courts. Criminal cases where the death penalty or life imprisonment have been imposed are appealed directly to the Supreme Court. (Effective 9/15/89, life imprisonment cases will be heard by the Court of Appeals.) Decisions of the Court of Appeals may be reviewed at the discretion of the Supreme Court. Through its rule-making authority, the Supreme Court regulates the activities of the State Bar of Arizona and oversees the admission of new attorneys to the practice of law. The Supreme Court also serves as the final decision-making body when disciplinary recommendations against Arizona judges are filed by the Commission on Judicial Conduct.

The Court of Appeals

The Court of Appeals has two divisions. Division One, with twelve judges, is located in Phoenix; Division Two, with six judges, sits in Tucson. The court has appellate jurisdiction to determine most matters properly appealed from the Superior Court.

The geographical jurisdiction of Division One covers appeals from the Superior Court in the counties of Apache, Coconino, La Paz, Maricopa, Mohave, Navajo, Yavapai, and Yuma. Division Two receives its cases from the Superior Court in the counties of Cochise, Gila, Graham, Greenlee, Pima, Pinal, and Santa Cruz. In addition, Division One has statewide responsibility for reviewing decisions of the Industrial Commission and hearing Unemployment Compensation appeals from the Department of Economic Security.

Superior Court

On June 30, 1989, the Superior Court consisted of 109 judges sitting in 15 counties. The Superior Court is a trial court of general jurisdiction and is empowered to hear cases of equity and law involving real property; civil claims of $2,500 or more; felony prosecutions and misdemeanors not otherwise provided for by law; probate matters; and cases involving dissolution or annulment of marriage. The Superior Court has concurrent jurisdiction with the Justice of the Peace Courts over civil claims between $500 and $2,500. It also has exclusive jurisdiction in juvenile matters.

In counties with three or more Superior Court judges, the presiding judge may appoint court commissioners to perform the duties provided by law or Supreme Court rule. Commissioners usually determine matters where a default has been entered against a party and may preside at the initial appearance of a defendant charged with a crime. A commissioner may be appointed in any county regardless of size to hear and determine Title IV-D child support matters. Adult and juvenile probation departments also operate under the supervision of the Superior Court.

Each county has a Clerk of the Superior Court who is elected at the general election. The responsibilities of the Clerk's Office are diverse and include maintenance of official court case files; certification of documents; collection of fees; and issuance of summonses, subpoenas, and marriage licenses. The Clerk serves as jury commissioner in all counties except Maricopa, Pima, and Yavapai; a separate jury commissioner is appointed in these three counties.

Justice of the Peace and Municipal Courts

Statewide there are 84 Justices of the Peace sitting in the same number of precincts. These judges are elected at the general election by voters in their respective precincts, and the regular term of office is four years. Municipal Courts are mandated by state law in each incorporated city or town. At the time of the 1989 personnel survey, there were 167 full- and part-time municipal judges sitting in 83 cities and towns throughout the state. Municipal judges are usually appointed by city or town councils. Both courts have jurisdiction to hear class 1, 2, and 3 misdemeanor cases and to conduct preliminary examinations on felony complaints. Municipal Courts are empowered to hear matters arising out of violations of city or town ordinances. Virtually all traffic violation cases are filed in the Justice of the Peace or Municipal Courts. Justice of the Peace Courts also have civil jurisdiction over lawsuits involving less than $2,500.

Statewide Caseload, Financial, and Personnel Information

General Introduction

This is the third year that this report reflects comprehensive data on caseloads, financing, and personnel for all courts within the Arizona judiciary on a fiscal year basis. Reports prior to 1987 presented caseload information on a calendar year basis. Summary information for all courts is included in the body of this report. Limited information for the individual courts within the Arizona court system is published in Appendix B of this report. The following general statements are included to provide a better understanding of the summary data presented here. Attention should also be given to the narrative statements and footnotes applicable to the specific information presented.

CASELOAD STATISTICS

The summary caseload statistics presented here have been compiled from the monthly statistical reports submitted to the Supreme Court by the individual appellate, superior, justice of the peace, and municipal courts of the state. Incomplete or inconsistent information, where detected, is footnoted. While the statistics are checked for mathematical accuracy, they are unaudited. Justice of the peace and municipal court criminal statistics reflect "complaint filings," while superior court figures reflect the number of "defendants" charged.

FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The financial information published in this report is based primarily on a survey of the courts distributed during July 1989. It is unaudited and, therefore, dependent on the reporting accuracy of the courts, counties, and cities participating in the survey. An effort was made to identify all costs of court operations where the cost is directly attributable to the individual court's budget. The categories and format for the survey were changed somewhat during FY 89. The following definitions for the categories used in this report are included to facilitate understanding of the financial information presented.

EXPENDITURES — includes those funds appropriated directly to the court by the immediate funding authority, state funds appropriated for local courts, and funds provided through grants. Expenditures attributable to the court, but included in budgets of other departments or agencies rather than the court's own budget, are not included in these figures.

Primary Budget

Salaries - amounts for salaries and wages for all personnel except the state's portion of superior and justice of the peace court judges' salaries.
Fringe Benefits - amounts for employer's cost of FICA, insurance, retirement contributions, etc.
Operations - amounts for utilities, telephones, postage, insurance, rent, building maintenance, office supplies, office equipment maintenance, and additional operating expenses.
External Services - amounts for non-operational, contractual services such as juries, attorney fees for indigent defendants, mental institution charges, some court reporter costs, etc.
Travel - amounts for personnel mileage, per diem, and travel.
Capital - amounts for purchases defined by the funding authority as "capital" expenses; such definitions vary significantly.

Secondary Budget

State Program Funds - state funds expended for specific programs, committees, or services that are appropriated to the Supreme Court. Where these funds are passed through to other courts for program operation, the expenditure is shown at that court level.

Federal Program Funds - federal funds expended for specific programs. Where these funds are passed through to other courts for program operation, the expenditure is shown at that court level.

Other Expenditures - amounts from funding sources not specified above (e.g., private grants and special fees charged for locally ordered and administered programs).

REVENUES — includes those funds collected by the courts for distribution to state, county, and city general and special funds; also includes monies held in trust for other parties.

Fines - criminal case monetary penalties.

Sanctions - civil traffic case monetary penalties and civil case monetary penalties assessed over and above the judgment and court costs.

Monetary Assessments - monetary penalties for juvenile traffic offenses.

Forfeitures - amounts sacrificed to a court by defendants as a result of failure to comply with a direction of the court, e.g., forfeiture of bond monies for failure to appear at a court hearing.

Surcharges - amounts assessed over and above any penalty or fee and identified for specific funds or activities.

Fees - amounts collected for any service performed by the court (e.g., copying documents) and any "chargeable" aspect of case processing (e.g., filing fees and jury fees).

Escheats - unclaimed monies held in trust by the court that have reverted to the court as a result of the court's petition.

Sales - amounts earned from the sale of unclaimed property at auction.

Trust - amounts defined by A.R.S. § 12-286 (D) and passed through to a recipient or held by the court for safekeeping. Pursuant to A.R.S. §12-286 (A) they may be deposited in interest-bearing accounts.

PERSONNEL INFORMATION

The personnel information contained in this report is based on a survey of the staffing levels of the Arizona judiciary as of June 30, 1989. Because of the vast number of job titles encountered both within and between the different levels of courts, broad general position groupings were developed to publish the information in a concise format.

Statewide Case Filing Information For All Court Levels

During FY 89, statewide filings for Arizona's courts totaled 1,853,967 as compared with 1,919,104 the previous year, a decrease of 3.4%.

Filings in municipal courts constituted the largest percentage (58.1%) of the state's total filings. Justice of the peace court filings were second with 34.2% of total filings. Thus, courts of limited jurisdiction received 92.3% of all case filings. This is the same percentage as shown for FY 88, although the distribution of the caseload increased by 2% for justice courts and decreased by 2% for municipal courts. The proportion of cases filed with the superior court and the two levels of appellate courts has remained constant for three years.

As shown in the accompanying pie chart, traffic cases represent the majority of all case filings, 72.5%. Criminal cases are the next highest category, accounting for 14.9% of all filings, and civil cases represent 9.5% of the total filings. The category of "other" filings, which represents 3.1% of the total statewide filings includes domestic relations, probate, and juvenile cases at the superior court level and special actions, industrial commission cases, habeas corpus, and State Bar matters at the appellate court level.

Statewide Judicial Expenditures

The financial information shown in the table below reflects the total FY 89 expenditures for all courts by level of court and funding source. The pie charts illustrate the percentage of expenditures by funding source and by court level.

The Arizona judiciary is funded almost exclusively by state and local governments. This year the state's funding contribution was 27.4%, an increase over the previous year's 25.0%. The counties contributed 55.0%, as compared with last year's 59.5%. The percentage of municipal funds went from 15.0% in FY 88 to 16.3% in FY 89.

Over two-thirds (69.8%) of the total FY 89 judicial expenditures were allocated for services at the superior court level, a slight drop from the 70.8% reported in FY 88. Municipal court expenditures were up to 16.4% from last year's 15.1%.

Statewide Expenditure Information

The statewide expenditure information below is provided for each of the court levels comprising the Arizona judiciary. The table shows specific line-item expenditures for FY 89. This data was compiled from Supreme Court financial records and responses to the Supreme Court expenditures survey distributed in July 1989.

Expenditures shown on the table represent monies from two general sources: (1) appropriated funds from the court's primary funding source, either the state (Supreme Court and Court of Appeals), the county (superior and justice courts), or the city or town (municipal courts), and (2) distributed program and additional funds from other, secondary sources (e.g., federal or state program grants).

Primary source expenditures in FY 89 of $144,716,795 account for 76.2% of the total court expenditures of $189,795,250. Within the primary source category, salaries account for the largest portion, $82,871,797, or 57.3%. Within the secondary source category, state program funds of $42,566,630 constitute 94.4% of the $45,078,455 total.

Statewide Personnel Information

The table below reflects a statewide summary of all court positions as of June 30, 1989; it includes staff positions funded through non-appropriated sources such as the Case Processing Assistance Fund and State Aid to Probation. The information was reported by the individual courts in response to the Supreme Court personnel survey conducted in July 1989. The total number of persons working full-time in the Arizona judicial system has increased from 4,289 in FY 88 to 4,603 in FY 89, a 7.3% increase.

In addition, the courts required the services of 216 temporary personnel during the year, and there were 1,095 people who regularly volunteered their time and services to the Arizona courts. Volunteers include attorneys, other professionals, and non-professionals who serve as pro-tempore magistrates, court reporters, teachers, information desk personnel, Court Appointed Special Advocates, and Foster Care Review Board members.

Statewide Revenue Summary

The first chart below reflects the total amount of fines, surcharges, fees, and other revenue reported as collected by the various courts throughout the state of Arizona during FY 89. These amounts were reported on fee reports and the annual revenue survey distributed by the Supreme Court in July 1989, and are unaudited. A detailed revenue chart appears on the facing page.

The Arizona courts collected a total of $84,416,931 during FY 89, a sharp increase over the $71,829,829 reported for FY 88. This reported increase may be due in part to the more detailed reporting format used in this year's survey instrument.

Cities and towns received a plurality of court revenue, $33,569,800 or 39.8%. Counties were the second largest beneficiaries of court revenue, receiving $26,538,716, or 31.4%, from superior and justice courts. The state of Arizona received $23,437,143, or 27.8%, primarily from surcharges in all trial courts. Municipal courts generated 52.4% of all court revenue, $44,258,208.

The combined category of fines, sanctions, monetary assessments, and forfeitures accounts for $50,626,326, or 60.0%.

In addition, as shown in the second chart below, Arizona courts processed $184,144,027 in temporary trust monies, the majority ($113,121,296) being child support payments processed through the superior court.

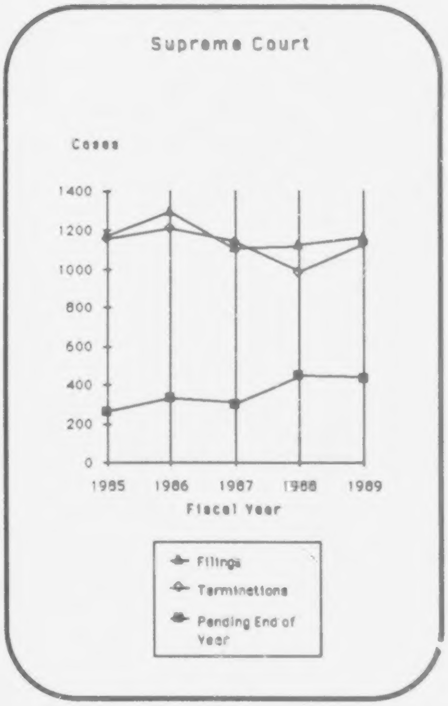
Supreme Court

CASELOAD ACTIVITY



During FY 89, a total of 1,163 cases were filed in the Supreme Court, a slight increase (3.9%) over the FY 88 total of 1,119. There was an 8.5% decrease in the largest category, petitions for review, 775 cases in FY 88 as compared with 709 during FY 89. The overall increase in caseload is explained by increases in direct criminal (17 cases), state bar (26 cases), and miscellaneous actions (44 cases), and the addition of the Rule 28 category (38 matters) to the table. Rule 28, Rules of the Supreme Court, permits any person, association, or agency to petition for adoption, amendment, or repeal of rules of procedure for Arizona courts. It includes widespread distribution of proposals for public comment.

During FY 89, the Supreme Court terminated 1,128 cases, a 14.6% increase from the 984 case closings the previous year. The most significant increase was in petitions for review. During FY 88, the Court was able to terminate 648 of these cases, but in FY 89 that number rose to 732, a 13.0% increase.

The slight increase in filings and the significant increase in terminations resulted in a pending caseload decrease of 2.9% from 448 cases pending on July 1, 1988 to 435 cases on June 30, 1989.

Court of Appeals - Division One

CASELOAD ACTIVITY

Division One of the Court of Appeals has experienced an increase in case filings for each of the last six years. This year filings increased by 2.4%, from 2,597 in FY 88 to 2,659 in FY 89. Total case terminations (including cases transfered out) decreased, from 2,489 in FY 88 to 2,446 in FY 89, or 1.7%.

Criminal case filings, the largest category, increased from 1,339 in FY 88 to 1,378 in FY 89, an increase of 2.9%. Petitions for review grew from 103 filings in FY 88 to 117 in FY 89, an increase of 13.6%. Special action filings showed an increase of 18.0%, from 244 cases in FY 88 to 288 cases this year. Civil case filings, however, recorded a 2.9% decrease, from 625 in FY 88 to 607 in FY 89.

There was an increase in the number of terminations in the largest category, criminal cases, (1,214 in FY 88 to 1,314 this year, 8.2%). Smaller increases in terminations were noted in the special actions, juvenile, and habeas corpus categories. However, these increases were offset by decreases in terminations in other areas.

The total pending caseload figure increased from 1,760 on July 1, 1988 to 1,981 at year-end, an increase of 12.6%. The addition of a fifth panel of judges, as approved by the legislature for appointment after June 30, 1989, will help to address this increase.

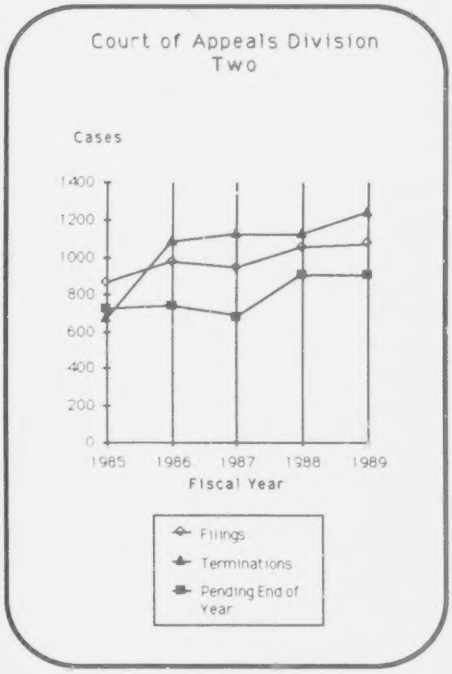
Court of Appeals - Division Two

CASELOAD ACTIVITY



The trend of increased filing activity in Division Two of the Court of Appeals has continued during FY 89 with the filing of 1,073 cases, a 2% increase over the 1,052 cases filed the previous year. Terminations increased 11.3% from 1,123 cases in FY 88 to 1,250 in FY 89.

The largest filing increase was in the criminal category (33 cases). The categories of civil and special actions remained virtually the same as the previous year. Petition for review filings declined from 104 in FY 88 to 90 in FY 89.

The large overall increase in terminations includes increases in the criminal (95 cases), special actions (33 cases), petitions for review (25 cases), and Industrial Commission (42 cases) categories. These more than offset a decrease in civil case terminations of 68 cases.

Total pending caseload figures decreased marginally, from 907 on July 1, 1988 to 902 at year-end.

Superior Court

CASELOAD ACTIVITY

The caseload statistics contained here are based on unaudited case activity data reported monthly to the Arizona Supreme Court by the superior court in each county. Criminal statistics represent the number of defendants; all other statistics represent cases.

This year, a decrease in case filings coupled with an increase in case terminations, has resulted in the first decline in superior court pending caseload since before 1977.

Filing Activity

During FY 89, total case filings for the superior court decreased from 141,875 in FY 88 to 136,908, a 3.5% decline. The majority of the decrease occurred in Maricopa County, from 87,758 in FY 88 to 81,759 in FY 89, or 6.8%.

By far the largest volume decrease in superior court filings occurred in the court's largest case category, civil cases, which dropped from 60,371 in FY 88 to 53,560 in FY 89, a decrease of 11.3%. Although this appears to be a significant drop, much of the variance can be linked to a dramatic increase during the previous year when there was a rush to file cases before major changes to the "joint and several liability" statutes became effective on January 1, 1988. In December 1987, a total of 12, 953 civil cases were filed as compared with 3,985 in December 1986 and 3,189 in December 1988. Therefore, the civil case filing decrease represents a return to a more "normal" filing level.

The next largest superior court category, domestic relations cases, showed a slight decrease of 3.1%, from 33,176 in FY 88 to 32,147 this year. Total criminal case filings were up by 6.8% from 25,176 in FY 88 to 26,897 in FY 89. Within this category, felony filings have shown an 8.2% increase, from 22,123 in FY 88 to 23,940 in FY 89. All other case categories, except misdemeanors and criminal lower court appeals, also registered increases. The three categories of civil, domestic relations, and felony criminal, account for 80.1% of the superior court total caseload.

Termination Activity

Superior court case terminations increased 4.9% during FY 89, rising from 131,507 in FY 88 to 137,901 this year. The largest increase occurred in the area of civil cases, where terminations increased from 54,132 in FY 88 to 56,489 in FY 89, an increase of 4.4%. Terminations increased in all other categories except unclassified criminal and adoption.

Pending Caseload

An increase in pending caseload at year-end has been a recurring theme for the superior court. However, there was actually a decrease of 6,975 cases between FY 88 and FY 89, a drop of 5.1%

Trials and Hearings

A total of 122 criminal cases were tried to the court (without a jury) during FY 89, 25 more than the previous year. (See chart on page 68.) Within this same time period, the number of criminal case jury trials increased 11.7%, from 888 in FY 88 to 992 in FY 89. However, the number of civil case trials to court (non-jury) decreased 6.5% from 1,022 in FY 88 to 956 in FY 89. There were also three fewer civil case jury trials this year as compared with FY 88 (526 to 523). The number of civil default hearings and domestic relations trials (court and jury) also declined slightly, while medical malpractice panel, mental health, domestic relations default, domestic violence, and show cause hearings increased.

Sentencing

During FY 89, a total of 4,445 defendants were sentenced to the Department of Corrections (DOC), as compared with 4,365 in FY 88, an increase of 1.8%. (See chart on page 69.) Dispositions to county jails, however, decreased 23.5%, from 515 in FY 88 to 394 in FY 89. In addition, sentences of probation with confinement have decreased from 5,398 in FY 88 to 5,058 in FY 89, a decline of 6.3%. Sentences of probation plus restitution have increased 8.2%, from 5,025 in FY 88 to 5,435 in FY 89.

ARIZONA TAX COURT

The Arizona Tax Court was created in 1988 by the Thirty-Eighth Legislature to serve as the statewide venue for all civil actions involving a tax, impost, or assessment. Suits may be filed using a simplified "small claims" procedure when the amount of tax is less than $5,000 or the dispute concerns valuations or classifications of property with a market value of $100,000 or less. Otherwise, cases are filed as "cases of record." The court is physically located within and administered by the Superior Court in Maricopa County, and appeals of Tax Court cases are heard in a special department of Division One of the Court of Appeals. The Tax Court began accepting cases in September 1988.

A total of 836 cases were filed in the Arizona Tax Court during FY 89, and 814 (97.4%) of these were cases of record. Property tax actions constituted the majority (738 or 88.3%) of all fillings. Cases from Maricopa and Pima counties accounted for 790 (94.5%) of these filings.

During FY 89, a total of 149 cases were terminated, 108 (72.5%) by judgment, including three written opinions. As of June 30, 1989, there were 687 cases pending in the Tax Court.

Adult Probation

CASELOAD ACTIVITY

During FY 89, a total of 10,634 adults were placed on probation, an increase of 4.0% over the 10,223 adults placed on probation in FY 88. In addition, 23,961 adults were on probation at the beginning of the year, so a total of 34,595 adults were supervised by probation departments throughout the state during FY 89, an increase of 8.5% over the FY 88 figure of 31,899.

The number of probation terminations increased from 8,078 to 9,038, an 11.9% increase over the FY 88 figure. While there was a 22.5% increase in the number of individuals receiving an early termination, (2,997 as compared with 2,446 for FY 88) there was a very slight decrease (-27) in the number of adults with a full-term discharge from probation. In addition, there was a 17.0% increase in the number of adults who were revoked from probation and sent to county jail or prison, 2,274 in FY 88 and 2,660 in FY 89. The number of "Other Terminations" also increased from 407 in FY 88 to 457 this year. Despite the increase in the number of adults whose probation was terminated, the total number of adults on probation increased from 23,961 on July 1, 1988 to 25,557 on June 30, 1989.

MONIES COLLECTED AND PUBLIC SERVICE HOURS

Over the last several years, there has been increased emphasis on requiring probationers to perform public service and on collecting fines, fees, and restitution payments ordered by the courts. This emphasis has paid off, literally.

Total collections are noted in the accompanying chart. All categories except reimbursement showed increases in FY 89. During the year, total collections amounted to $7,969,923, a 12.9% increase over the FY 88 figure of $7,061,340.

The total hours of public work service completed by probationers increased a dramatic 97.0%, from 149,968 in FY 88 to 295,473 in FY 89.

State Aid For Probation Services

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 12-261, et seq., the State Aid for Probation services program provides funding to the superior court in each county for maintaining, expanding, or improving juvenile probation services, and for achieving or maintaining the average adult probation case supervision ratio requirement of 60 in-county probationers to one probation officer as required by A.R.S. § 12-251. Supreme Court Administrative Order No. 89-6 provides that at least 80% of the funds allocated to each superior court be used to fund the salaries and employee-related expenses of probation officers supervising adults or juveniles on probation to the superior court. By statute, the superior court in each county receives a $20,000 base, with the remainder of the funds allocated pursuant to the Supreme Court's determination of need and probable effectiveness of each plan as submitted by individual adult and juvenile probation departments.

During FY 89, the Supreme Court allocated a total of $304,892 to fund the salaries, employee benefits, and a portion of the associated operating expenses for adult probation officers in Graham, Greenlee, Pima, and Pinal counties. A total of $1,030,029 of the FY 89 State Aid for Probation Services appropriation was allocated to juvenile probation departments.

State Aid Enhancement

The State Aid Enhancement program was authorized by the legislature during the 1983 Special Session when the commitment was made for the state to subsidize adult probation services in order to maintain the statutory ratio of adult probationers to probation officers (60:1). In FY 89, the Supreme Court allocated approximately $6.7 million to fund salaries, employee benefits, and a portion of the associated operating expenses for 189 adult probation officer positions and 12 supervisory positions statewide.

Adult probationers included in the 60:1 statutory standard are predominately felony offenders who could be sentenced to the Department of Corrections (DOC) if probation supervision were not available. The average cost of supervising an offender on regular probation is $422 per year, which is dramatically less than the estimated $19,000 annual cost for housing an inmate in a DOC facility.

At the close of FY 89, State Aid Enhancement program funds provided the salaries, employee benefits, and a portion of the operating expenses for 66.1% of the 304 authorized probation officer positions providing supervision services to approximately 24,000 adult offenders on regular (not intensive supervision) probation to the superior court in Arizona.

Adult Probation Services Fees

In 1981, the Arizona Legislature passed legislation authorizing each county treasurer to establish a Probation Services Fund. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 13-901.A:

> When granting probation to an adult the superior court shall, as a condition of probation, assess a monthly fee of not less than thirty dollars unless, after determining the inability of the probationer to pay the fee, the court assesses a lesser fee. The fee shall be paid to the clerk of the superior court. The clerk of the court shall pay all monies collected from this fee to the county treasurer for deposit in the probation services fund.

Supreme Court Administrative Order No. 86-8 prescribes the procedures for the use of probation services fees ordered by a sentencing judge and paid into the fund by adults on supervised probation. Monies may be expended only upon the direction of the presiding judge of the superior court and are to be used primarily to pay the salaries and employee-related expenses of adult probation officers who provide presentence investigations and supervision services for the superior court. During a fiscal year, up to 30% of the probation services fund may be expended "...to otherwise improve, maintain, or expand adult probation services provided within the county...", i.e., for programming, services, and operating expenses other than officer salaries and fringe benefits.

Statewide financial activity of the adult probation services fees fund is summarized in the accompanying charts.

Adult Intensive Probation Supervision

Adult Intensive Probation Supervision (AIPS) is a special probation program created during the 1983 Special Legislative Session to divert serious, non-violent offenders from overcrowded prisons. The program was implemented on July 1, 1985 as a punishment-oriented sentencing alternative. It is primarily for class 4, 5, and 6 felony offenders who otherwise would be incarcerated in the Department of Corrections (DOC); thus, prison space is reserved for more serious offenders. As the result of statutory amendments, class 2 and 3 felony offenders have been eligible for placement in AIPS since October 1988. The AIPS program emphasizes public protection and the collection of restitution for victims.

A.R.S. § 12-291, et seq., provides that probation teams consisting of a probation officer and a surveillance officer supervise no more than 25 offenders at any time. In some cases one intensive probation officer may supervise a maximum of 15 offenders, and in special circumstances a three-member probation team comprised of one probation officer and two surveillance officers may supervise up to 40 offenders at one time. Team members must have face-to-face contact with offenders at least four times each week; maintain control of each offender's paycheck in order to enforce payment of restitution, fees, and other court-ordered assessments; and administer frequent and random tests for drug use and abuse. Officer contacts with intensive probationers may take place at any time and typically occur during evening hours, on weekends, and on holidays. Offenders may be required to serve up to one year in jail as a condition of intensive probation supervision. Offenders must be employed, engaged in supervised job searches, or enrolled as a full-time student; they must also perform at least 40 hours of volunteer community service work each month. As a special condition of AIPS, a sentencing judge may require an offender to complete a rigorous 120-day program of Shock Incarceration at the Department of Corrections.

Community Service Hours	207,408	247,552
Offenders on AIPS 6/30/89		1,568

During FY 89, a total of $6,503,600 was appropriated by the legislature to the AIPS program and provided the capacity for superior court adult probation departments to provide intensive supervision to as many as 1,445 prison-bound offenders in the community at any one time. The annual cost of supervision per offender in the AIPS program is approximately $4,500. The annual cost of housing an inmate at DOC is $13,000 - $19,000 per inmate per year plus construction costs of $30,000 to $50,000 per cell. Thus, there is a substantial cost savings to the state when offenders can be placed in the AIPS program.

A total of 2,607 offenders were supervised statewide on Adult Intensive Probation Supervision during FY 89; approximately 21% of those supervised, 560, were revoked from intensive supervision and sent to prison during the twelve-month period. Superior courts in Arizona sentenced 1,545 felony offenders to AIPS during the year. Intensive supervision officers collected $956,370 in restitution, fines, and fees from offenders on AIPS, whose income totaled $5,129,095. AIPS probationers paid over $643,000 in income taxes and performed 247,552 hours of community service work. On June 30, 1989, there were 1,568 felony offenders on Adult Intensive Probation Supervision statewide.

Community Punishment Program

Arizona's Community Punishment Program (CPP) was created pursuant to A.R.S. § 12-299, with an effective date of September 30, 1988.

The statutes permit the superior court in each county to create a community punishment program for persons placed on regular or intensive probation who are identified by the court as candidates for increased conditions of probation in order to better protect the community and rehabilitate the offender. The program provides resources for additional surveillance and supervision, specialized drug counseling, psychiatric or psychological services, and enforcement of restitution and community service. The law requires that CPP funds be used to supplement monies currently used for community-based sentencing and adult probation programs and services, and it encourages community involvement in establishing and evaluating local community punishment programs by authorizing creation of local Community Punishment Advisory Committees.

". . . it encourages community involvement in establishing and evaluating local community punishment programs . . . ."

Although no funding was provided for implementation of CPP during FY 89, staff of the Administrative Office of the Courts prepared administrative guidelines and established program standards to expedite program implementation in the event the legislature appropriated funds for CPP operation during FY 1990.

Fifteen counties submitted program proposals and funding requests during FY 89, and late in the 1989 legislative session, $2,629,000 was appropriated for program operation in FY 1990. A footnote to the appropriation requires that the primary goal of CPP in FY 90 be to divert offenders from the state corrections and county jail systems.

Seven counties will implement Community Punishment Programs during FY 90 with a goal of diverting nearly 700 offenders from the prison and county jail populations. Programs to be implemented include: residential treatment, job placement, specialized caseloads, substance abuse aversion counseling and treatment, emergency housing and transportation subsidies, intensive field and surveillance supervision, electronic monitoring, urinalysis testing, psychological evaluations, and literacy training and adult education.

Juvenile Probation

CASELOAD ACTIVITY

Referrals

During FY 89, the juvenile probation department handled a total of 56,639 referrals, an increase of 4.7% over the previous year. Of these, 48,174 represent new referrals filed during the year, an increase of 3.4% from the 46,581 filed during FY 88. The remaining referrals were pending at the beginning of FY 89.

The number of referrals that resulted in a petition being filed increased 2.9% from 14,105 in FY 88 to 14,516 in FY 89, and referrals ending in adjustment grew by 1.1% from 27,453 to 27,744 over the same period.

Children with Petitions Filed

The number of children with petitions filed during FY 89 increased 3.5% from 10,267 in FY 88 to 10,623 in FY 89. In addition, there were 3,133 children with petitions pending on July 1, 1988. Thus, Arizona had a total of 13,756 children with petitions during the year; of these, 7,621 were adjudicated delinquent or incorrigible, a 6.9% increase over the 7,128 children adjudicated delinquent or incorrigible in FY 88.

"...Arizona had a total of 13,756 children with petitions during the year...."

Probation Activity

A total of 4,047 children were placed on probation during the year, an 8.4% increase from the 3,732 children in FY 88. Revocations from probation increased from 676 during FY 88 to 711 in FY 89, a 5.2% rise. At the end of FY 89, a total of 4,407 children were on probation, a slight increase from the 4,385 children on probation on July 1, 1988.

Juvenile Probation Services Fees Fund

Probation services fees are collected by the juvenile divisions of the superior court pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 8-241, 8-230.01, and 12-268. Monies in the fund are to be used in accordance with guidelines established by the Supreme Court primarily to pay for training, salaries, and employee-related benefits of juvenile court personnel. In addition, during any fiscal year not more than 30% of the fund may be expended to otherwise improve, maintain, or expand juvenile probation services.

State law provides that the juvenile courts shall assess a juvenile's parents a monthly fee of not less than $30 while the juvenile is under the supervision of the juvenile probation department. State law also provides that the parents of a juvenile whose delinquency complaint or citation alleging an alcohol offense is adjusted after the child's completion of consequences assigned by a probation officer shall be assessed a one-time $30 fee. In both cases, if the court determines the inability of the parent to pay the fee, a lesser amount may be assessed.

The fees are paid to the clerk of the superior court and deposited into a special revenue fund established with the county treasurer. Expenditures from the fund are made at the direction of the presiding juvenile court judge. The Juvenile Probation Services Fees collected during FY 89 and on deposit as of June 30, 1989 are shown in the accompanying chart.

Juvenile Crime Reduction Fund

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 41-2401.B(4), the Arizona Supreme Court receives 12% of the Criminal Justice Enhancement Fund for the purpose of reducing juvenile crime. The Supreme Court's administrative requirements for the fund provide that, unless otherwise prohibited by law, any state, county, city, or tribal government agency, entity, or department, including school districts, is eligible to apply to the Supreme Court for Juvenile Crime Reduction Funds. Not more than 50% of the fund may be awarded to applicants within any one county during a single fiscal year.

Among other factors, the Supreme Court considers the following in making its determination regarding funding:

- The demonstrated need to reduce juvenile crime in the area covered by the application, and the absence of other governmental and community resources to accomplish that objective;
- The estimated number of juveniles affected by the plan; and
- The basis for the applicant's assessment that the plan will be reasonably successful.

Plans funded for FY 89 fell into four general categories:

- Programs demonstrating effective coordination among existing community agencies in an effort to reduce juvenile crime;
- Programs providing consequences, close supervision, and an emphasis on the collection of restitution for juveniles adjudicated delinquent;
- Programs providing education/awareness for juveniles regarding crime prevention, safety, drug/alcohol abuse prevention, and self-protection; and
- Programs providing funds to law enforcement agencies for implementing effective prevention programs.

During FY 89, funding was awarded for two statewide projects and 39 individual programs in 12 counties.

Family Counseling

Pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 8-261 through 8-265, family counseling funds provide financial assistance for the juvenile divisions of the superior court. Family counseling services are utilized by the various juvenile courts to strengthen family relationships and to help prevent juvenile delinquency.

State funds appropriated to the Supreme Court are distributed annually to juvenile courts. Each court is entitled to a base amount of $5,000, and the remainder is allocated according to the juvenile population of each county. The counties provide matching funds at a four-to-one ratio. The FY 89 appropriation was $312,800.

The types of problems that prompt referral to a juvenile court's family counseling program are many and varied. They include emotional and behavioral problems stemming from alcoholism, unemployment, divorce, step-parenting problems, and parent-child communications. Funds can be used to provide counseling not only to children who have come to the attention of the court, but also to their parents and siblings in an effort to address family problems that may be contributing to unlawful behavior and to prevent escalation into more serious delinquent activity.

Based on reports received by the Administrative Office of the Courts from the juvenile probation departments, 2,451 children and their families received counseling services through the program during FY 89.

Juvenile Probation Services Fund

The Juvenile Probation Services Fund was created by the legislature in 1986 by combining the Juvenile Delinquency Reduction Fund and the Juvenile Probation Office Foster Care (JPO/FC) line item from the Department of Economic Security's budget. Prior to FY 87, the Administrative Office of the Courts functioned as a liaison between the juvenile courts and the Department of Economic Security in the allocation of JPO/FC funds used to provide treatment services for adjudicated juveniles; the annual appropriation for the Juvenile Delinquency Reduction Fund was used by the juvenile courts to provide consequences to juveniles who acknowledged responsibility for a delinquent act or alcohol offense. The merging of these two funds into the Juvenile Probation Services Fund has allowed the juvenile courts to maximize impact of the funds and to contract for the wide variety of services necessary to address the needs of all juveniles under the supervision of the courts, from first-time offenders to juveniles adjudicated delinquent or incorrigible.

Pursuant to A.R.S. § 8-230.02, Juvenile Probation Services Funds are now used for satisfying: (1) the requirements of A.R.S. § 8-230.01, whereby a probation officer must provide a consequence to a juvenile who acknowledges responsibility for a delinquent act or alcohol offense, and (2) the need to provide services to children referred for delinquent or incorrigible offenses and placed in foster care, day treatment programs, residential treatment centers, counseling, drug treatment/testing, and other programs as required by A.R.S. § 8-243. This is the primary treatment fund for the entire juvenile court system. The accompanying chart indicates the FY 89 allocation of funds to each county.

The majority of the fund is used to place children in residential treatment centers. For the delinquent child, residential placement is an alternative to commitment to the Department of Corrections. For the emotionally disturbed incorrigible child, this fund represents the only significant source of funding for residential treatment and assistance to the child and the child's family. Residential placements increased steadily during FY 89, from 257 placements in July of 1988 to 320 placements in June of 1989.

To satisfy the requirements of A.R.S. § 8-230.01, the juvenile courts operate directly or contract with outside agencies to provide consequences to juveniles who acknowledge responsibility for a delinquent act or alcohol offense, prior to adjustment of the delinquency complaint or the complaint/citation alleging an alcohol offense. Consequences imposed on these juveniles include participation in unpaid community service work, counseling programs, a drug/alcohol or "first offender" education program, a day treatment program, and/or payment of restitution or a monetary assessment.

Juvenile Intensive Probation Supervision

As a result of increased concern about juvenile crime, overcrowding in juvenile correctional institutions, and the high costs of incarceration, the legislature created the Juvenile Intensive Probation Supervision (JIPS) program in 1986. Juveniles were first placed on intensive probation in February 1987. The Administrative Office of the Courts has overall responsibility for implementing JIPS and approving program and budget plans for operation of the program in each county.

Revoked to DOC during FY 89	216
On JIPS 6/30/89	508
Community Service Hours Provided	32,644

The legislature intended JIPS to be a highly structured, closely supervised program with emphasis on surveillance, education, work, and home detention. This is achieved by providing a significantly higher level of supervision than is found in traditional probation programs. In most cases, at least four weekly face-to-face contacts are required between the supervising probation (or surveillance) officer and each juvenile. In addition, officers maintain at least weekly contacts with parents, school officials, community service supervisors, and treatment providers. Juveniles are required to do one or more of the following for not less than 32 hours per week: attend school, remain employed, provide community service, or attend court-ordered treatment programs, such as drug and alcohol abuse counseling. Juveniles must remain at home unless participating in an activity specifically approved for them by the probation officer.

The end result is a program that balances control of the juvenile offender through strict supervision with rehabilitative efforts designed to address the particular problems of each youth. In addition to providing close supervision, JIPS officers maintain information regarding the conduct of each case, may request that the county attorney bring a non-compliant probationer before the court, and monitor the payment of restitution and probation fees. Pursuant to Supreme Court administrative requirements, the purpose of JIPS is to reduce commitments to the State Department of Corrections and other institutional or out-of-home placements.

> "The end result is a program that balances control of the juvenile offender through strict supervision with rehabilitative efforts...."

The accompanying table reflects program activity for FY 89. The number of youths on JIPS at year-end, 508, represents a 24% increase over the 410 youths supervised at the beginning of FY 89. In addition to the number of juveniles with dispositions to juvenile intensive probation (654), in a number of rural counties JIPS officers supervised a total of 34 other "high risk" juveniles pursuant to A.R.S. § 8-276.

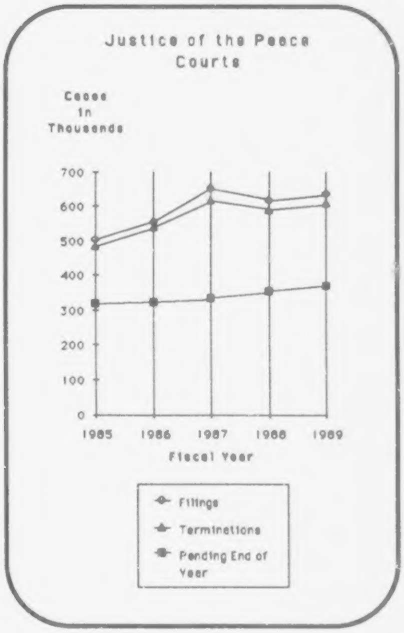
Pursuant to A.R.S. § 8-278, the Administrative Office of the Courts is contracting with an independent team of evaluators to assess the impact of JIPS programs in each county. The report is due in January 1990.

During FY 89, in coordination with the Department of Corrections (DOC), pilot JIPS Parole Programs were established in both Navajo and Yuma counties. Juveniles released from DOC to these programs are supervised by JIPS staff following the highly structured program used with other JIPS probationers. A report evaluating the pilot programs is due in December 1989.

Justice of the Peace Courts

CASELOAD ACTIVITY

The total number of case filings in Arizona's justice of the peace courts during FY 89 increased 2.7%, from 617,973 cases in FY 88 to 634,717 this year. Statewide case terminations increased 2.8% from 590,187 in FY 88 to 606,618 in FY 89. The total number of cases pending increased by 5.0% from 352,524 on July 1, 1988 to 370,131 at year-end.



Filings

Traffic cases comprise the majority of the workload in justice courts. During FY 89, the number of traffic filings (including traffic-related failure to appear filings) increased 2.3% from 429,694 in FY 88 to 439,367 this year. During FY 89, a total of 237,239 criminal traffic cases were filed, an increase of 1.4% from the 234,009 filings in FY 88. Civil traffic case filings increased 4.8% from 176,202 in FY 88 to 184,731 this year. The number of non-traffic misdemeanor case filings rose 4.4% from 46,028 in FY 88 to 48,055 in FY 89. Felony preliminary hearings have shown a slight decrease (2.1%) from 22,329 in FY 88 to 21,857 in FY 89. In contrast to municipal court trends, domestic violence petitions in justice courts decreased from 6,156 in FY 88 to 4,792 in FY 89 (22.2%), and harassment petitions declined from 4,035 in FY 88 to 3,350 in FY 89 (17.0%).

Total civil case filings increased by 5% from 115,446 in FY 88 to 121,204 in FY 89. Within this group, small claims, civil cases under $500, and forcible detainer categories displayed increases, while civil cases of $500-$2499 showed a decline.

Terminations

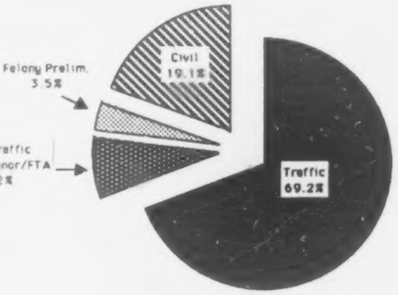
Although case terminations increased in all "total" categories (total traffic, total criminal, and total civil), some individual categories within those showed declines. The highest volume of increased terminations was in forcible detainer cases, 52,086 in FY 88 as compared with 61,361 in FY 89. Criminal traffic case terminations increased 2.9% from 228,166 cases in FY 88 to 234,743 in FY 89.

Traffic case failure to appear terminations showed a decrease of 12.6% from 16,581 in FY 88 to 14,492 in FY 89. However, civil traffic case terminations showed a slight increase, 1.6%, from 175,510 case closings in FY 88 to 178,286 in FY 89.

Misdemeanor case terminations increased 2.4% from 39,421 in FY 88 to 40,385 in FY 89. Non-traffic misdemeanor failure to appear case terminations decreased 14.4% from 2,792 in FY 88 to 2,391 in FY 89. Felony preliminary hearing case terminations showed a slight decrease of 0.8% from 20,613 in FY 88 to 20,444 in FY 89.

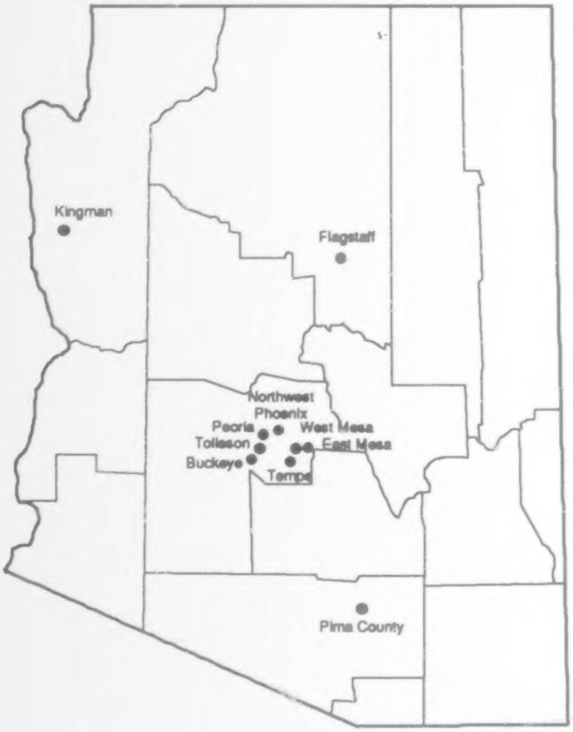
Civil case terminations increased by 8.2% from 107,104 in FY 88 to 115,877 in FY 89. Within the civil category, increases in the small claims and forcible detainer categories more than offset decreases in the other two civil types.

Case Filings Distribution



Driving Under the Influence

Case filings for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs (DUI) during FY 89 totaled 14,672, as compared with 14,413 in FY 88, a marginal filing increase of 259 cases. DUI case terminations only marginally decreased by a similar amount (278 cases) from 14,110 in FY 88 to 13,832 in FY 89. DUI end-of-year pending cases for FY 89 numbered 11,496, a decrease of 31 cases from the 11,527 recorded for FY 88.



This map identifies the ten justice courts with the highest number of total filings during FY 89. For a complete listing of the courts see pages 74 - 75.

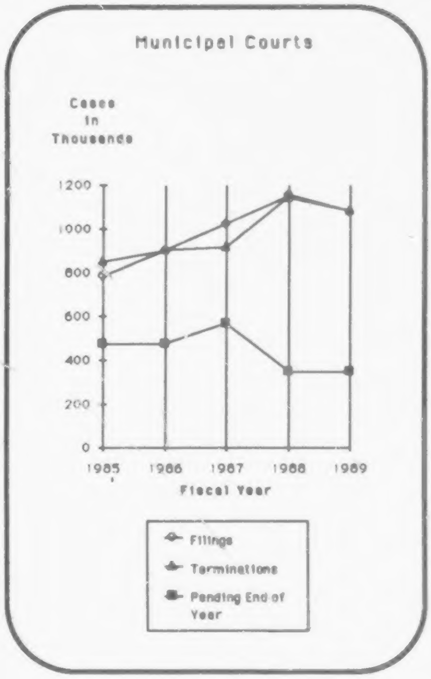
Municipal Courts

CASELOAD ACTIVITY



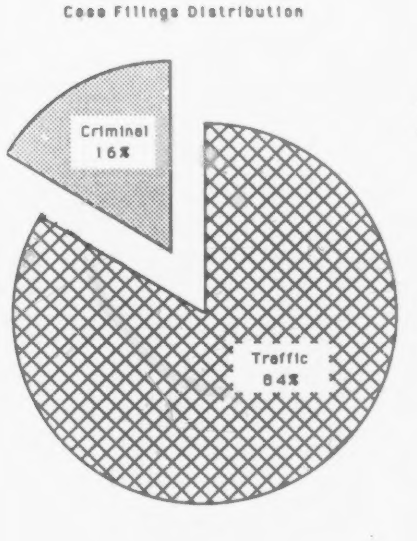
During FY 89, municipal courts had 1,077,447 new cases filed, a decrease of 6.7% from the 1,154,488 cases filed in FY 88. Total case terminations declined (5.5%), from 1,145,850 in FY 88 to 1,082,924 in FY 89. The result was a net decline in the year-end pending caseload of 4,679 cases, or 1.3%.

Filings

Filings went down in all case categories except felony preliminary hearings, which increased from 15 to 143. Traffic case filings, which comprise the majority of municipal court caseload activity, decreased 5.2% from 955,068 in FY 88 to 905,034 in FY 89 (which is only partly accounted for by the -17,900 case statistical correction). Within the traffic category, criminal traffic violation filings decreased 8.6% from 146,352 in FY 88 to 133,814 filings for FY 89. Civil traffic violation filings decreased from 775,431 to 738,303 over the same time period, a 4.8% decline. Non-traffic misdemeanor filings dropped from 166,240 in FY 88 to 144,363 in FY 89, a decrease of 13.2% (despite a +20,588 case statistical correction). Misdemeanor failure to appear (FTA) complaint filings declined from 33,165 in FY 88 to 27,907 this year, a decrease of 15.9%.

Municipal courts continued to experience significant increases in the number of petitions filed related to domestic violence and harassment. During FY 88, a total of 3,718 petitions were filed for an Order of Protection as compared with 6,568 this year, an increase of 76.7%. Petitions filed for an Injunction Against Harassment rose from 1,956 last year to 3,301 this year, an increase of 68.8%.

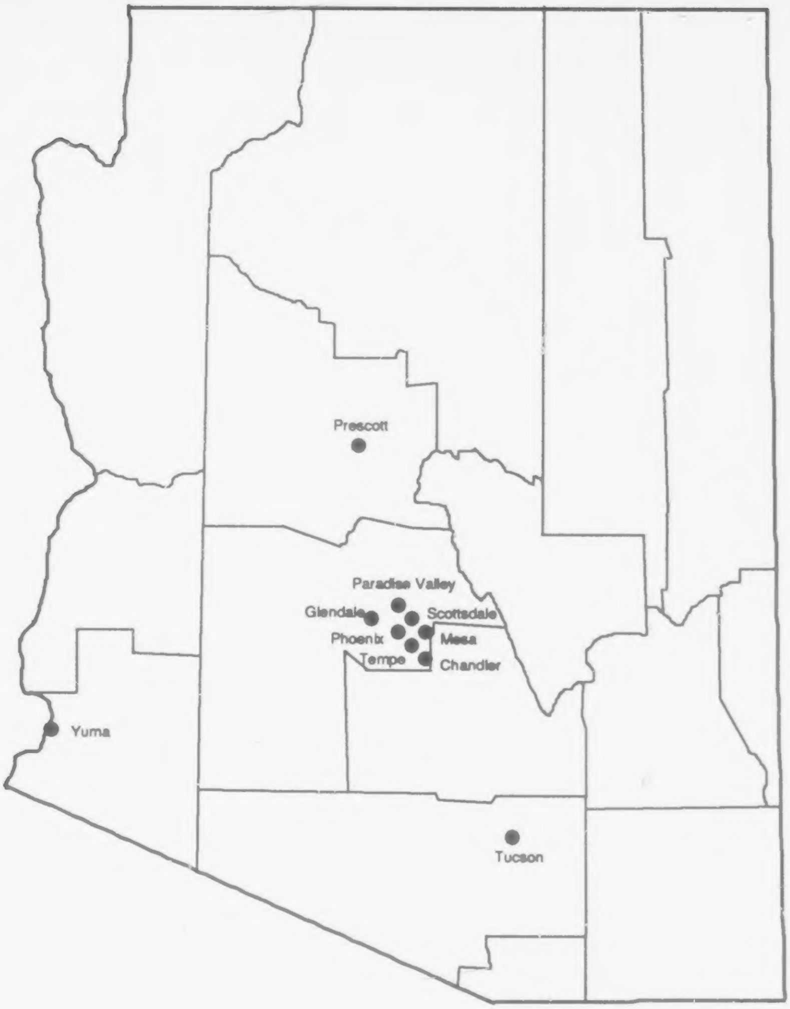
Terminations



Decreases in terminations occurred in all case categories except felony preliminary hearings and misdemeanor FTA. Total traffic case terminations decreased from 961,380 in FY 88 to 909,464 in FY 89, a drop of 5.4%. Within the traffic category, criminal traffic case terminations decreased 10.2%, moving from 147,556 in FY 88 to 132,475 this year. In civil traffic, 746,471 cases were terminated this year as compared with 782,496 during FY 88, a 4.6% decrease. Non-traffic misdemeanor case terminations decreased 9.3% from 165,846 in FY 88 to 150,425 in FY 89, while misdemeanor failure to appear (FTA) complaint terminations increased from 18,614 in FY 88 to 22,952 in FY 89, or 23.3%.

Driving Under the Influence

The total number of complaints for driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs (DUI) filed in municipal courts during FY 89 (36,627) reflects a 9.2% decrease from the FY 88 figure of 40,342. Terminations for DUI cases have decreased 9.0% over the FY 88 figure, dropping from 40,073 to 36,469 in FY 89. Driving while intoxicated ending pending caseloads have decreased from 30,727 in FY 88 to 29,476 in FY 89, a decline of 4.1%.



This map identifies the ten municipal courts with the highest number of total filings during FY 89. For a complete listing of the courts see pages 81 - 82.

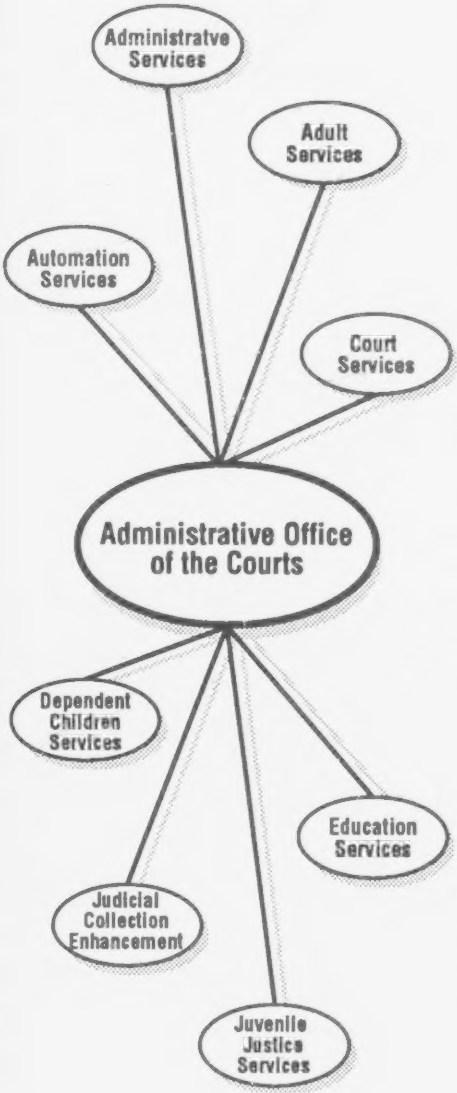
Administrative Office of the Courts

The Arizona Constitution charges the Supreme Court with responsibility for providing administrative supervision over all the courts of the State and states that the Chief Justice shall exercise this supervision. The constitution authorizes the Supreme Court to appoint an Administrative Director and staff to assist the Chief Justice in discharging his administrative duties.



Administratve Services
Adult Services
Automation Services
Court Services
Administrative Office of the Courts
Dependent Children Services
Education Services
Judicial Collection Enhancement
Juvenile Justice Services

The matters assigned to the Administrative Director of the Courts vary from time to time, but generally consist of: 1) preparation, coordination, and representation of the judiciary's state budget requests to the legislature; 2) management of financial, personnel, and administrative matters for the Supreme Court; 3) management of special funds assigned to the supervision of the Supreme Court; 4) design and implementation of education programs for the judiciary; 5) administration of special programs assigned to the Supreme Court by the legislature; 6) service as administrative liaison to the other courts in the state and as a management assistance resource for them; and 7) undertaking special projects as assigned.

In order to work more efficiently with this broad range of tasks, the office has been organized into eight divisions as illustrated in the margin. A description of each division is provided below. Information regarding the divisions' activities during FY 89 is presented within the major service categories listed above.

The Administrative Services Division assists the Administrative Director in the administrative supervision of the courts by providing operational support in the appropriations and legislative process and by fostering uniform policy and procedure administration. The division provides an interface with other court offices and branches of government and assists with other projects as assigned.

The Adult Services Division assists the Administrative Director in the effective statewide administration of criminal justice programs and adult probation services consistent with state constitutional, statutory, and administrative requirements.

The Automation Services Division coordinates, plans, and, as necessary, establishes, maintains, and supports automated systems to further the integration of the Arizona court system.

The Court Services Division assists the Administrative Director in the administrative supervision of all courts by providing direction and leadership and by promoting uniformity and integration of court operations, services, forms, policies, procedures, and standards. The Division assists the judicial department in meeting current needs and planning for future legal, social, governmental, demographic, and technological developments.

The Dependent Children Services Division assists the Administrative Office of the Courts in the effective management and coordination of the Foster Care Review Board (FCRB) and Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) programs to assure that the best interests of Arizona's children are served by providing a system of volunteer advocacy and review.

The Education Services Division assists the Administrative Director in establishing and maintaining a statewide judicial education system in support of the Council on Judicial Education and Training and the Arizona Supreme Court Education Policies and Standards. The Division provides orientation programs, statewide and regional conferences, faculty development, and a variety of education materials. In addition, the Division establishes and provides public education and information regarding the court system.

The Judicial Collection Enhancement Division provides funds and assistance to courts statewide to enhance their ability to collect monies, including fines, restitution, and child support.

The Juvenile Justice Services Division assists the Administrative Director in the effective administration of juvenile justice programs, including juvenile court and probation activities consistent with state constitutional, statutory, and administrative requirements.

Budget, Financial, and Personnel Services

The Administrative Office of the Courts provides budget, accounting, payroll, purchasing, and personnel services to the Supreme Court and its employees. In addition to preparing the Supreme Court's budget, staff traditionally makes the budget presentation to the legislature for the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, and superior court state appropriations. For FY 89, the Administrative Office's budgetary responsibility totalled $44,301,400, while financial management/accounting responsibility was $53,298,366.

Special Funds Administered by the Supreme Court

Over the years, the legislature has provided the Supreme Court with various funds to oversee and manage. All but four of these funds are used by the adult and juvenile probation departments. The exceptions are 1) the Case Processing Assistance Fund, 2) the Drug Adjudication Grant Funds, 3) the Defensive Driving School Fund, and 4) the Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund. The first three of these are described here; the defensive driving school program is described on page 48. The others, as listed in the margin, are described in the superior court probation section of this report on pages 30 -39.

In 1986, the Juvenile Delinquency Reduction Fund was merged with the "Juvenile Probation Office Foster Care" line item of the Department of Economic Security's budget and placed under Supreme Court supervision. The two were retitled as the "Juvenile Probation Services Fund."

CASE PROCESSING ASSISTANCE FUND

The Case Processing Assistance Fund (CPAF) derives from a 9% portion of the 37% Criminal Justice Enhancement Fund surcharge on all fines and penalties assessed and collected by the courts. These monies are available to assist courts in enhancing their ability to process criminal and juvenile delinquency cases (A.R.S. §§ 41-2401 and -2403).

The fund was created in 1983 and is used to encourage innovative programs designed to reduce delay and to provide training in case management principles. Funding is restricted so that courts in a single county cannot receive more than 50% of the total amount of all grants awarded statewide. Increased consideration is given to courts whose local funding authority demonstrates commitment to the project by providing matching funds, either cash or in-kind, or by agreeing to assume the cost of the program in the future. In October 1988, a decision was made to shift the funding cycle from a federal fiscal year to a state fiscal year. As a result, the most recent funding awards were for a nine-month period, October 1988 through June 1989. In order to allow each county to prioritize its own needs, all applications must be co-signed by the presiding judge of the superior court. Up to 10% of the previous year's revenue may be allocated for administrative costs.

DRUG ADJUDICATION GRANT FUNDS

Drug Adjudication Grant Funds assist courts in meeting expenses associated with increasing caseloads and related workload resulting from Arizona's "war on drugs" laws passed in 1987.

The Arizona Criminal Justice Commission allocated over $2 million to the Supreme Court for FY 89. These funds were then distributed to 20 sub-grantees in 14 counties and used for judges, support staff, probation officers, clerks, community service coordinators, drug testing of defendants, and indigent defense services.

Funds from this program were used to process the cases of 6,225 defendants charged with drug and drug-related offenses in FY 89.

JUDICIAL COLLECTION ENHANCEMENT FUND

In June 1989, S.B. 1233 was signed into law, creating the Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund (JCEF). JCEF monies will be used to improve, maintain, and enhance the judiciary's ability to collect and manage monies assessed or received by the courts, including restitution, child support, fines and civil penalties. This fund will also support court automation projects designed to improve case processing and the administration of justice.

The Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund is comprised of revenues from the following sources:

1. A 15% surcharge placed on all filing, clerk, and appearance fees, unless the fee is greater than $50, in which case a 10% surcharge is assessed.
2. A $5 surcharge paid by persons attending a court-ordered diversion program for civil or criminal traffic offenses.
3. Three dollars of the $8 time-payment fee assessed to persons who choose to pay a court-ordered penalty, fine, or sanction using a time-payment plan.

The goals of the Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund program are:

1. To improve the quality and consistency of justice by increasing the likelihood that court orders will be enforced.
2. To increase the amount of child support and restitution collected.
3. To establish a court automation system that will improve the efficiency of local court operations and provide the Supreme Court with necessary information to manage the court system.
4. To provide the public with greater and easier access to the courts through improved technology.

In accordance with the legislation, a study is being conducted to review all filing, appearance, and clerk fees collected by each of Arizona's five levels of courts: Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, Superior Court, Justice of the Peace Courts, and Municipal Courts. A report will be submitted to the legislature and the governor by December 31, 1989. It will detail actual costs incurred by the courts in processing individual actions and recommend appropriate fees for each type of action.

Education Programs for the Judiciary

Most of the education programs offered by the Administrative Office of the Courts are organized, coordinated, and presented by the Education Services Division. However, since the training needs of the judiciary are so diverse and this division does not have an extensive staff, other divisions are also involved with providing training programs, especially in specific program areas.

EDUCATION SERVICES DIVISION PROGRAMS

In accordance with Administrative Order 89-2 the Administrative Office of the Courts coordinates education programs throughout the state to assist all court employees, including probation personnel, in satisfying their requirements for orientation and 16 hours of continuing education programs. Arizona is the only state to have mandatory continuing education requirements for all court personnel. Programs sponsored by the Education Services Division of the Administrative Office are listed in the accompanying chart.

In addition to the continuation of established programs offered to court personnel, the FY 89 education year contained major statewide conferences for all court personnel categories: judicial, probation, and support staff. These programs, in conjunction with a vast number of local programs offered throughout the state, assisted court employees statewide in achieving 99 percent compliance with the training requirements outlined in the administrative order. The division also provided financial assistance for court personnel to attend out-of-state programs offered by organizations such as the National Judicial College, University of Virginia College of Law, and National Council of Juvenile and Family Court Judges.

The division also consolidated three video tapes into a single tape that is available to the public through Arizona's public libraries. The single tape covers three topics: "The Arizona Court System: Arizona's Design for Justice;" "The Court's People: Administering Arizona's Justice;" and "Pro Per: Representing Yourself in Arizona's Justice Courts."

The Education Services' media center and resource library were expanded during FY 89 to provide resources for program development on both the statewide and local level.

OTHER EDUCATION ACTIVITIES

Training academies specifically related to preparing adult and juvenile probation officers to work in the Intensive Probation Supervision programs are offered twice a year and are organized by Administrative Office staff who work directly with the intensive supervision programs. In addition, this year the Administrative Office has sponsored training seminars in the areas of juvenile and criminal law, legal liabilities for probation officers, cultural issues, and basic skills enhancement.

The Administrative Office completed preparation of a self-paced course entitled "Children in the Arizona Legal System," for use by personnel associated with the Foster Care Review Board, Court Appointed Special Advocate, Juvenile Intensive Probation Supervision, Juvenile Crime Reduction Fund, Juvenile Probation Services Fund, and State Aid to Probation programs. The course covers the following topic areas: general statement of public policy, juvenile courts in Arizona, child protective and rehabilitative services, child welfare and placement, termination of parental rights, and juvenile court procedure. The course has been well received by juvenile court personnel throughout the state.

Special Programs Administered by the Supreme Court

From time to time, new programs are developed and the Supreme Court is asked to organize and implement them. A listing of such programs is provided in the margin.

PROGRAMS ADMINISTERED
BY THE SUPREME COURT

Name of Program	Year Created
Foster Care Review Boards (FCRB)	1978
Adult Intensive Probation Supervision (AIPS)	1983
Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA)	1985
Juvenile Intensive Probation Supervision (JIPS)	1986
Community Punishment Program	1988
Defensive Driving School Program	1989

Both the Foster Care Review Board system and the Court Appointed Special Advocate program enhance court services for dependent children. They are described in this section of the report. The two intensive supervision probation programs and the Community Punishment Program are described in the Superior Court Probation section of this report on pages 33, 39, and 34 respectively. The most recent of these special programs, defensive driving, was created this year in response to the disparity in the availability and operations of defensive driving school programs statewide. This program is described below.

DEFENSIVE DRIVING SCHOOL PROGRAM

Two statutes were added to address problems relating to statewide availability and operations of defensive driving schools. The first, A.R.S. § 28-492, becomes effective June 30, 1990. It provides that defensive driving school programs may be used by the courts statewide as a diversion program for individuals who are charged with a civil traffic violation not involving death or serious bodily injury. It requires the Supreme Court to supervise the use of defensive driving schools by courts in the state and notes that such supervision includes: (1) making public the costs of attending the defensive driving schools in each court, (2) maintaining a statewide data base, and (3) adopting rules establishing criteria for certification of qualified defensive driving schools and instructors used by the courts.

The second statute establishes the Defensive Driving School Fund consisting of a fee (not to exceed $15) that will be assessed to each person who attends a defensive driving school. the fee is charged in addition to the court's diversion fee and the cost to attend the school. Funds can be expended at the Supreme Court's discretion to supervise the Defensive Driving School Program and to further expedite processing of civil traffic offenses.

By January 15, 1990, the Supreme Court must submit to the legislature and the governor a plan recommending a public agency to be responsible for certifying schools and instructors and for monitoring continued compliance.

FOSTER CARE REVIEW BOARD

The Foster Care Review Board system (FCRB) was established by law in September 1978 and placed under the administrative supervision of the Arizona Supreme Court.

Five-member volunteer citizen review boards are appointed in each county by the presiding juvenile court judge. Local boards review the case of each child adjudicated dependent and living in out-of-home placement for six months or more; subsequent reviews are held at least every six months.

Pursuant to statute, the Department of Economic Security or other child welfare agency must establish a plan for the permanent placement of each child placed in foster care. The statutory purpose of the review boards is to determine what efforts are being made by the Department of Economic Security or other child welfare agency to carry out that plan. The boards then submit to the juvenile courts their recommendations and findings regarding the efforts and progress made to carry out the placement plan, together with any other recommendations they choose to make regarding the child.

The recommendations of review boards are advisory only. The juvenile court judges maintain responsibility for judicial determinations regarding each dependent child. Local review boards are appointed for every 100 children subject to review. In addition to the 50 local foster care review boards, a State Foster Care Review Board exists. Pursuant to A.R.S. § 8-515.04 (C), the State Foster Care Review Board produces an annual report each year to make recommendations to the governor, legislature, and Supreme Court regarding foster care statutes, policies, and procedures.

The volunteer board members commit a substantial amount of their time and energy to accomplishing the goals of the program. The sustained efforts of these volunteers have been the catalyst in the success of the Arizona Foster Care Review Board program. This dedication contributes significantly to the recognition of Arizona's FCRB system as a national model.

COURT APPOINTED SPECIAL ADVOCATE (CASA) PROGRAM

The Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) Program began in Maricopa County on October 1, 1985. Rule 22.1, Rules of Procedure for the Juvenile Court, authorizes the establishment and operation of CASA programs in each juvenile court in accordance with the policies and standards established by the Supreme Court.

A CASA is a carefully screened, specially trained volunteer who is appointed by the presiding juvenile court judge to act as an advocate for children who have become wards of the court as a result of severe abuse and neglect or abandonment. CASAs speak exclusively for the best interests of the child.

The CASA volunteer has three main roles: 1) conducting an independent investigation of the case and advocating for needed services for the child and family; 2) serving as the "eyes and ears of the court," providing written reports and testimony to the juvenile court judge to help the judge make the best decision possible; and 3) being a consistent person, a trusted adult, and "watchdog" for the child throughout the court proceedings, ensuring that permanency is achieved as quickly as possible with the least amount of trauma to the child.

During FY 89, the number of counties operating a CASA program doubled, from four to eight, and at least three counties are expected to establish CASA programs during the coming fiscal year.

On June 20, 1989, Supreme Court Rule 22, Rules of Procedure for the Juvenile Court, was amended to mandate the appointment of a guardian ad litem for the child in every dependency action where the petition alleges abuse or neglect. This change was made to conform with PL 100-294, the Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act. CASA volunteers can be appointed to perform this function.

The CASA program is currently supported by state funding and by federal funding from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. During the 1990 legislative session, state funding will be requested to implement the CASA Program statewide.

Administrative Liaison and Management Assistance

Over the last five years the Supreme Court has become increasingly aware of local courts' needs for guidance and assistance to implement new laws and administer the courts. As a result, the Administrative Office has allocated more staff resources to address those needs.

PROCEDURES AND LEGAL RESEARCH

As part of the Supreme Court's effort to improve court administration throughout Arizona, during FY 89 Administrative Office staff have been involved with a number of projects undertaken by the Council on Judicial Administration to improve court operations. For example, the Advisory Committee on Jury Management reviewed Arizona statutes, rules, and jury management procedures in light of the A.B.A. Standards Related to Juror Use and Management. The Advisory Committee on Records Management continues to work on statewide standards and an updated schedule for court records' retention and destruction. Staff also conducted a statewide survey on the status and condition of existing court facilities. A final report will be submitted to the Chief Justice in December 1989. New Council on Judicial Administration committees have been formed to address DUI/criminal case processing delays and use of video transcription.

The Administrative Office established a forms committee composed of trial court personnel from throughout the state. The purpose of the committee is to develop uniform, understandable, and efficient legal forms for use in Arizona's court system. The committee has developed sets of forms for evictions, garnishment, and waiver of court fees.

Staff has facilitated a variety of local court management studies and projects dealing with issues such as assessment and collection of fines, case processing delay reduction, and document paperflow. Considerable effort has also been devoted to study of multiple-charge citations and ways to expedite processing of DUI cases. Technical assistance was provided to numerous courts throughout the state.

"Staff has facilitated a variety of local court management studies . . . ."

Administrative Office of the Courts' legal staff has responded to legal issues concerning the administration of the courts arising at all levels of the Arizona court system. The following topics were among those addressed during the year: victims' rights, municipal courts' judicial authority, special detainer/eviction process, court fees, photo radar, wedding ceremonies, juvenile detention, juvenile intensive probation, defensive driving schools, water rights litigation, traffic citations, tax court, public records, notary public liability, and marriage licensing.

In conjunction with juvenile court directors and presiding juvenile court judges, the Administrative Office is continuing its efforts to coordinate development of a statewide juvenile case classification system. This system will contain validated risk assessment and needs assessment components. Juvenile courts in five counties (Coconino, Maricopa, Pima, Yavapai, and Yuma) have volunteered to serve as test sites for the initial risk assessment mode. This model will be tested and evaluated through early 1990 with expansion to other juvenile courts beginning soon thereafter. Arizona's juvenile case classification system will serve as a predispositional tool for juvenile court judges and will result in improved supervision. The goal for this project is to establish a fully operational classification system throughout Arizona that considers local and regional differences. The system will be integrated into juvenile court automated systems, which will allow for continuous evaluation and updating as needed.

AUTOMATION AND DATABASE MANAGEMENT

In December 1988, the Council on Judicial Administration accepted the Committee on Information Systems' recommendations regarding the future of automation in the judiciary. Ten recommendations were adopted including one recognizing that courts are fully responsible for their computer systems and the data that resides on them.

Since 1986, staff of the Administrative Office has been developing and adding enhancements to the Lower Court Information System (LOCIS), designed for use by small- to medium-sized municipal and justice of the peace courts. The program provides caseload management functions for traffic, criminal, and civil cases. It also handles financial procedures such as accounts receivable. By the end of FY 89, LOCIS was installed in over 55 courts throughout Arizona. During the year, Administrative Office staff enhanced the case processing capabilities and statistical/auditing functions of the program.

Considerable time has also been devoted to continued work with the automated recordkeeping program for probation departments. Development of the Arizona Probation Management Information System (APMIS) began in 1986. APMIS was designed to establish a standardized statewide database management information system for rural probation departments in Arizona. The APMIS system has two modules, one for juvenile probation data and one for adult probation data. APMIS is the primary source of information pertaining to adult and juvenile probation activity in the rural counties of Arizona. It provides probation departments with a tool for meeting their reporting requirements and maintaining case management information on their probation caseloads. The design of the system provides growth potential and flexibility for each department.

Special Projects of the Supreme Court

The Supreme Court frequently asks the Administrative Office to undertake special projects on its behalf. Some of these are relatively short-term projects and others continue for several years.

"One of the Court's current long-term projects is design and construction of the Arizona Courts Building . . ."

One of the Court's current long-term projects is design and construction of the Arizona Courts Building to house the Supreme Court and its support staff, including the Administrative Office of the Courts; the Court of Appeals, Division One, and its support staff; the Commission on Judicial Conduct; a Special Master for the Gila River water rights litigation; and the state law library. Construction commenced in January 1989, and the courts plan to move into the building in November 1990. The construction is progressing rapidly and smoothly, and the building is starting to take on its own personality. Many resources that are presently fragmented will be consolidated in the new building, resulting in more efficient and economical operations. An extensive electronic security system is planned, which will provide maximum protection for the judiciary, building staff, visitors, court documents, and property. In addition to the primary tenants, approximately 20,000 square feet of unallocated space will be leased to other state agencies until it is needed by the judiciary.

Work of the Commission on the Courts filled FY 89. Members of the commission were appointed in June 1988, and by July 1989 they submitted their report and recommendations for enhancing the judiciary to better meet the challenges it will face into the year 2000. (For a comprehensive report of the activities of the commission, see pages 6 - 13.)

The Administrative Office also staffed continuing efforts to improve the child support system in Arizona. This included securing passage of legislation regarding child support guidelines as well as initiating review of the current guidelines. Additionally, staff has been hired to facilitate and provide coordination for a statewide automated child support enforcement program that is being implemented by the Department of Economic Security and its Child Support Enforcement section. All work in the child support area is coordinated through the Council on Judicial Administration and its advisory committee on child support.

During the 1989 legislative session, the Administrative Office spent a considerable amount of time working with legislation. Major accomplishments in this area include creation of the Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund and the Defensive Driving School Program and Fund and improvements to the intensive probation and shock incarceration programs. Staff also worked on several funding issues and were successful in obtaining funds for the fifth panel of judges for Division One of the Court of Appeals, the Community Punishment Program, and juvenile detention center education programs.

One of the most unique and effective special projects pursued during FY 88 was continued in FY 89. It involves the Principles of the Alphabet Literacy System (PALS) reading labs. PALS is an interactive computer program designed as an innovative literacy teaching method that can help adults and adolescents achieve higher reading and writing levels. Recognizing the strong link between illiteracy and unlawful behavior, the Supreme Court has continued to provide partial funding for the PALS program in an effort to address the illiteracy problems of adults and juveniles under the supervision of Arizona's courts.

During FY 89, the PALS program was expanded to provide additional lab sites statewide. These labs have been developed in partnerships with various entities. The target populations are first and foremost adult probationers and juveniles referred to the juvenile court. Following this group, other "high risk" individuals that may potentially be involved with the court system will be considered. Finally, any other individuals who recognize their need to learn to read or improve their basic skills will be provided an opportunity to participate.

Supreme Court Committees & Commissions

Commissions on Judicial Appointments

The Arizona Constitution provides for merit selection of judges for the Supreme Court, Court of Appeals, and Superior Court in counties with a population of 150,000 or more. (Counties with lesser population may choose to use the merit selection process, but to date none have done so.) Commissions on Judicial Appointments, referred to as Judicial Nominating Commissions, are the core of the merit selection system. There are three commissions: the Commission on Appellate Court Appointments, the Commission on Trial Court Appointments in Maricopa County, and the Commission on Trial Court Appointments in Pima County.

> "The Arizona Constitution provides for merit selection of judges . . . ."

Each commission has nine members. Five non-lawyer members are selected by the governor and three attorney members are recommended to the governor by the State Bar; all are then nominated by the governor and must be confirmed by the State Senate. The Chief Justice of the Arizona Supreme Court presides over each commission and is thus a ninth member; however, the Chief Justice votes only in the case of a tie. Commission members serve staggered four-year terms.

Pursuant to the constitution, within 60 days of a vacancy in the office of a justice or judge of a court of record using the merit selection system, the appropriate commission must submit at least three names to the governor to fill such vacancy. When three or four persons are nominated, not more than two may be members of the same political party; when more than four persons are nominated, not more than 60 percent may be from the same political party. If the commission does not submit nominations within 60 days after a vacancy occurs, the governor may appoint any qualified person to fill the vacancy. If the governor does not appoint one of the commission's nominees within 60 days after the names are submitted, the Chief Justice makes the appointment.

Judges appointed to office under the merit selection system initially hold office for a term that ends 60 days following the next regular general election after a two-year term of office. At the election, voters indicate "yes" or "no" on the issue of retaining the judge or justice. If retained, the judge serves a full regular term and then the retention process repeats itself. If a judge is not retained, the office is vacated upon expiration of the term, and the appropriate commission begins its nominating task once again.

Commission on Judicial Conduct

The Commission on Judicial Conduct, formerly called the Commission on Judicial Qualifications, was established in 1970 pursuant to Article VI.I of the Arizona Constitution. Its purpose is to review and investigate, when indicated, complaints against appellate court judges; superior court judges; justices of the peace; and, since January 1989, municipal court judges. In addition, the commission has jurisdiction over candidates for judicial office, judges pro tempore, and retired judges sitting at the request of a presiding judge. The commission does not have jurisdiction over hearing officers, referees, court commissioners, or federal court judges.

The commission is empowered to investigate the following matters:

- A judge who pleads guilty or no contest or is found guilty of a crime punishable as a felony under Arizona or federal law, or any other crime that involves moral turpitude under such law.
- The disability of a judge that seriously interferes with the performance of his or her duties and is or is likely to become permanent.
- Action by a judge that constitutes wilful misconduct in office.
- Action by a judge that constitutes a wilful and persistent failure to perform his or her duties.
- Action by a judge that constitutes habitual intemperance.
- Conduct by a judge that is prejudicial to the administration of justice that brings the judicial office into disrepute.

> "After an investigation, the commission may proceed in several ways."

The commission also investigates complaints involving violations of the Code of Judicial Conduct adopted by the Arizona Supreme Court and applicable to Arizona judges.

After an investigation, the commission may proceed in several ways. It may dismiss the complaint as frivolous or beyond its constitutional jurisdiction, e.g., complaints that are filed because of a judge's decision in a lawsuit or some legal matter that can only be decided by an appellate court. The commission also may dispose of a complaint informally by (1) issuing a private reprimand or adjusting the complaint by conferring with the judge; (2) informing or admonishing the judge that his or her conduct is or may be a cause for discipline; (3) directing professional counseling or assistance for the judge; or (4) imposing conditions on the judge's future conduct. In the most serious of meritorious complaints, the commission may initiate a formal inquiry that can lead to more severe discipline.

The commission does not have authority to publicly censure or to suspend or remove a judge from office. It can only recommend to the Supreme Court that such action be taken after it has conducted a formal inquiry by holding an evidentiary hearing to make findings of fact and formulate its recommendation. The activities of the commission are confidential until such time as formal recommendations are filed with the Clerk of the Supreme Court.

ACTIVITY OF THE COMMISSION ON JUDICIAL CONDUCT

Activity	1987	1988
Public Inquiries	356	475
Complaints	106	105
Complaints Dismissed	83	91
Informal Dispositions	15	9
Formal Hearings Held	1	3
Disciplinary Recommendations Filed with the Supreme Court	1	3

The commission has eleven members. The standard term of appointment is now six years; however, some members are completing their four-year terms and initial appointments under the new provisions will be for staggered lengths. The Supreme Court appoints two judges from the Court of Appeals, two superior court judges, one justice of the peace, and one municipal court judge. The Board of Governors of the State Bar of Arizona appoints two lawyers to the commission. The governor appoints three citizen members whose appointment must be confirmed by the Senate.

The commission's workload has increased dramatically during the last two years. In 1987 and again in 1988, more than 105 complaints were filed. This is a 100% increase over the number filed five years ago. Each year the commission also responds to hundreds of public inquiries about judicial conduct.

Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee

The Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee was established by the Supreme Court in 1976. The purpose of the committee is to receive and research inquiries regarding judicial ethics and to submit formal advisory opinions to the Arizona Supreme Court for consideration. If approved, the Supreme Court distributes these advisory opinions to all judges.

During FY 89, the committee rendered advisory opinions based on the following questions:

- May a judge serve as a member of the Public Safety Personnel Retirement Fund Manager's Committee?
- May a judge serve as a member of the Arizona State Hospital Advisory Board?
- May a judges' association request leave of the Supreme Court to file an amicus curiae brief in a separation of powers case?

Council on Judicial Education and Training

> ". . .the Arizona Supreme Court established an educational system for all judges and employees of the Arizona judiciary."

To the end that judicial independence and competence might be preserved and reinforced as essential elements of our system of government, in November 1983 the Arizona Supreme Court established an educational system for all judges and employees of the Arizona judiciary. The Court also created the Council on Judicial Education and Training (COJET) to assist in the development and implementation of education policies and standards for judges, probation officers, and other court personnel at all levels of the judicial system.

The council is comprised of the following members: a Supreme Court justice or Court of Appeals judge, two judges from the superior court (one representing rural areas, one representing urban areas), one justice of the peace and one municipal court judge (one to be a lawyer and one a non-lawyer), the administrative director or deputy director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, a trial court administrator, two chief probation officers (one from juvenile probation, one from adult probation, with one representing urban areas and the other rural areas), a superior court clerk, the deans of the state's two law schools or their designees, and such other members as may be appointed at the discretion of the Chief Justice.

The council is authorized to establish such advisory committees as it deems necessary to assist it in carrying out its responsibilities. It also approves and recommends educational programs submitted by judicial, public, and private agencies and education institutions.

In late 1986, the council recommended several major changes in the Court's education policies and standards in order to improve the quality of educational programs conducted across the state. This was accomplished, in part, by proposing orientation and continuing education standards for all judges and employees in the judicial system. The Supreme Court approved this proposal in January 1987, and it became effective July 1, 1987. As a result, Arizona is the only state in the nation to establish education standards for all court personnel.

In accordance with these standards, all judges must complete an orientation program and 16 hours of approved coursework each fiscal year. Since all judges are required to attend an annual judicial conference designated by the Supreme Court, education hours for the conference can contribute toward the coursework requirement.

All court administrators, probation officers, clerks, and other court personnel must also receive job-related orientation (where applicable) and complete 16 hours of approved coursework each year.

At the conclusion of FY 89, the Arizona judiciary achieved 99 percent compliance with the educational policies and standards -- an exciting culmination to the second year of mandatory education requirements.

Council on Judicial Administration

In response to the continued growth of the Arizona judiciary and the need for greater coordination among the various components of the judicial system, in May 1987, the Supreme Court created the Council on Judicial Administration (COJA). This council advises the Supreme Court on the development and implementation of policies and procedures related to the integration of the judicial system and the administration of the courts.

> "This council advises the Supreme Court on the development and implementation of policies and procedures . . . ."

The COJA membership is comprised of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the chief judges of the Court of Appeals, the presiding judges of the superior court, a juvenile court judge, a justice of the peace, a municipal court judge, the administrative director of the courts, and such other judges as appointed by the Chief Justice. All those who are members by virtue of the positions they hold retain membership for as long as they hold their respective positions; appointed members may have terms of varying lengths and may be reappointed to serve successive terms.

COJA members study the internal operations of the courts, recommend uniform administrative practices and procedures, coordinate the judiciary's legislative agenda, and develop programs to improve judicial administration and communication throughout the judicial system. COJA also advises the Council on Judicial Education and Training on educational needs relating to judicial administration in Arizona.

In addition, COJA serves as an "umbrella" for many committees and activities, some of which were operational prior to its formation. New advisory committees are formed as needed. Committee members include not only COJA members, but judicial personnel from throughout the state and in some instances non-judicial personnel. Most of the work done by COJA is accomplished through the use of these committees.

During FY 89, COJA provided considerable assistance to the Supreme Court in many areas including the following: child support enforcement, jury management, proposed rule changes, proposed legislation concerning judicial collections and defensive driving schools, court records purge lists for use in Arizona courts, courtroom security, indigent defense, municipal courts' relationships with cities, and tax court implementation.

Appendix A

1989 Legislation Affecting the Courts

Legislative Summary

The First Regular Session of the 39th Legislature was among the longest in state history — 159 days. Despite the large number of measures introduced (1,134) and the lengthy session, a lower than usual number of bills (313) made it through the entire process to become law.

The following section summarizes several new laws that affect Arizona courts. Unless otherwise noted, the new statutes took effect September 15, 1989.

Administration and Recordkeeping

Chapter 57	HB 2425	Changes compensation of court reporters appearing at preliminary hearings and fees for related transcription.
Chapter 76	HB 2501	Requires show cause hearings to be held within 10 days of allegation of violation of condition of appearance bond. Forfeiture hearing, set not less than 90 nor more than 180 days thereafter, will follow if violation is unexcused or unexplained.
Chapter 86	HB 2379	Requires clerks of the court to transmit to the county treasurer on the last day of each month the felony penalty assessments collected that month with an accompanying itemized statement.
Chapter 87	HB 2385	Increases the maximum fine for a class 1 misdemeanor from $1,000 to $2,500.
Chapter 297	SB 1233	Creates the Judicial Collection Enhancement Fund, which will be used to improve, maintain, and enhance the ability of courts to collect and manage monies assessed or received, and to fund court automation. Surcharges on filing fees and court diversion programs, and an $8.00 assessment on time payment fees provide the revenue source for this fund. Two dollars of the $8 time payment fee will be used to train county public defenders.

Adult Probation

Chapter 12	HB 2261	Permits courts to place defendants on probation and defer designation of certain offenses as felonies or misdemeanors until the termination of probation.
Chapter 18	SB 1092	Amends adult intensive probation statutes to provide that, as a special condition of intensive probation, a sentencing judge may require an eligible offender to complete a 120-day shock incarceration program. Eligibility is determined during a 45-day screening program conducted by the Department of Corrections. If determined eligible, the offender is required to complete the 120-day program. If determined ineligible, he is returned to court for further disposition.

Other Changes Affecting Probation:

1. Moves Intensive Probation Supervision statutes from Title 12 to Title 13, Chapter 9, Probation and Restoration of Civil Rights.
2. Requires the court, before it terminates a period of probation, to give the prosecuting attorney and victim opportunity to be heard.
3. Eliminates the 45-day period of incarceration as a condition of intensive probation.
4. Makes felony class 2 and 3 offenders eligible for intensive probation.
5. Requires probation officers to report to the court if the probationer engages in conduct constituting an offense.
6. Requires the court to notify the prosecuting attorney and the victim of a proposed modification of intensive probation.

Child Custody and Support

Chapter 56	HB 2416	Designates DES as the Central Registry for interstate child support actions. Authorizes the Attorney General or prosecuting attorney to prosecute these cases.
Chapter 119	HB 2448	Clarifies procedures relating to orders of assignment for child support or spousal maintenance. Requires that child support guidelines established by the Supreme Court form a rebuttable presumption as to the correct child support amount. Requires the Supreme Court to develop criteria for deviation from the child support guidelines.
Chapter 267	SB 1079	Makes various changes affecting the enforcement of child support orders, for example: 1 Removes exemption for certain pension payments and personal property. 2. Permits court to order that a judgment against the parents of a minor putative mother or father be satisfied through periodic payments. 3. Revises provisions dealing with burden of proof for contempt of court. 4. Allows the Attorney General or county attorney to seek modification as well as establishment and enforcement of child support orders. 5. States that the child support enforcement administration cannot be charged a fee for performing an act necessary to enforce a support order. 6. Requires employers to cooperate with an agency that has obtained a judgment in its favor in a paternity action or an action to establish child support.
Chapter 278	HB 2554	Revises domestic relations statutes. Allows court to order that neither party contact the other except through a third party or until further order of the court. No presumption of misconduct shall arise out of issuance of such an order, nor shall it be used for any purpose in subsequent proceedings involving child custody or visitation rights. Specifies when a mutual order of protection shall be issued. Expands sentencing options for domestic violence offenders to include imposition of a fine, incarceration, or restitution.
Chapter 295	SB 1138	Enacts a series of welfare "reforms" affecting child support enforcement. Allows unwed parents to voluntarily acknowledge paternity, which will result in the Clerk of the Superior Court issuing an order establishing paternity.
Chapter 309	HB 2418	Provides that the court may issue an order for joint custody of a child if both parents agree in writing and specific statutory findings are made by the court. A non-custodial parent is entitled to have access to medical and school records directly from the custodial parent or the custodian of the records unless the court finds that the access would seriously endanger the child's or the custodial parent's physical, mental, moral, or emotional health.

Civil Matters

Chapter 38	HB 1046	Revises language regarding decedent's estates and allowance in lieu of homestead. An allocation of the statutory allowances and property exemptions is provided for children who were dependent upon the decedent and do not reside with the surviving spouse. Revises proceedings regarding conservators and requests to probate. Requires the court to appoint a person or agency to investigate the need for appointment of a guardian or conservator in certain mental health situations. Clarifies that the Public Fiduciary only serves in the absence of other qualified and willing persons, consistent with Title 14.
Chapter 118	HB 2347	Creates a civil cause of action for incapacitated adults whose life or health has been threatened due to neglect, abuse, or exploitation by persons who have a legal duty to provide care. Requires the Attorney General to maintain a registry of persons and enterprises against whom civil and criminal complaints have been filed.
Chapter 172	SB 1453	Provides exceptions from exemplary or punitive damages against manufacturers or sellers of drugs under specified conditions.

Chapter 207	SB 1170	Provides new procedures for disclosure of medical records by health care providers in compliance with a subpoena duces tecum.
Chapter 246	HB 2350	Revises time frames related to forcible entry and detainer actions as follows: 1. The courts are required to issue a summons no later than the next judicial day after the complaint is filed. 2. The trial date shall be no more than five judicial days after the complaint is filed. 3. The writ of restitution shall be enforced as promptly and expeditiously as possible.
Chapter 289	HB 2123	Permits a party in a medical malpractice action to receive or pay future damages for economic loss in periodic installments. Provision is subject to numerous qualifications and limitations.
Chapter 58	HB 2439	Transfers from the Supreme Court to the Court of Appeals original appellate jurisdiction for crimes where a sentence of life imprisonment has actually been imposed.
Chapter 100	HB 2111	Defines assault by an owner's vicious dog and classifies it as a Class 6 felony. Requires posting of presence of such animals in certain circumstances.
Chapter 148	SB 1196	Augments the list of dangerous drugs, narcotic drugs, and precursor chemicals in the Criminal Code; amends the schedule of controlled substances.
Chapter 170	HB 2576	Creates a criminal classification for arson of an occupied jail or prison facility. Increases the threshold amounts for charging the offenses of criminal damage and theft.
Chapter 199	HB 2002	Prescribes life imprisonment (25 year minimum) for a second conviction of sexual assault if certain conditions exist: 1. Use or exhibition of a deadly weapon or dangerous instrument, or 2. Knowing or intentional infliction of serious physical injury.
Chapter 233	SB 1257	Prescribes justification for the use of deadly physical force by peace officers and other persons effecting an arrest or preventing an escape.

DUI and Traffic Violations

Prisons/Jails

Chapter 134	HB 1163	Requires the victim or victim's family to notify the Department of Corrections of address changes. Failure to do so is deemed a waiver of their right to notice from DOC in the event of the death, escape, or release of an inmate.
Chapter 224	HB 2459	Specifies that cities/towns are responsible for the jail costs of a person arrested by the city/town police and charged in a city/town court, who is housed in or sentenced to a county jail. Persons arrested by the city/town police, but who are charged in the superior court or a justice of the peace court, may be housed in a county jail at the county's expense. Cities and counties shall be fully reimbursed for the cost of housing a prisoner sentenced to the state Department of Corrections. Chapter 266	SB 1034	Creates a separate, independent Department of Juvenile Corrections encompassing the various juvenile institutions, facilities, and programs that are part of the Department of Corrections. Superior Court Caseload Statistical Definitions

The following definitions are included to afford the reader a better understanding of what the statistical data in this report represents. Civil, domestic relations, and all other non-criminal statistics reflect the number of cases. Criminal statistics reflect the number of defendants named in complaints, informations, and/or indictments.

Case Categories

FELONY - Defendants in criminal cases who are charged with a felony offense, i.e., those where the law provides for presumptive punishment of at least eighteen months incarceration and/or a fine of up to $150,000 for an individual or $1,000,000 for an enterprise.

MISDEMEANOR - Defendants in criminal cases who are charged with a misdemeanor offense, i.e., those where the law provides for presumptive punishment that does not exceed six months incarceration and/or a fine of $1,000 for an individual or $20,000 for an enterprise.

UNCLASSIFIED CRIMINAL - Defendants in criminal cases who are charged with offenses that do not come under any of the other criminal case categories listed, e.g., peace bond complaints and fugitive actions.

LOWER COURT APPEALS - The number of civil traffic cases appealed and the number of defendants in criminal traffic and non-traffic misdemeanor cases who appeal a decision rendered in a municipal or justice of the peace court.

CIVIL - Tort Motor Vehicle (includes all actions for damages for personal injury, property damage, or wrongful death arising from operation of a motor vehicle), Tort Non-Motor (includes all tort actions not listed in the Motor Vehicle category except medical malpractice. Examples: assault and battery, libel and slander, false imprisonment, non-motor-vehicle related personal injury or property damage), Medical Malpractice, Contract, Eminent Domain, Lower Court Civil Appeals, and Non-Classified Civil Cases.

DOMESTIC RELATIONS - Paternity, Maternity, Dissolution, Annulment, Legal Separation, County Attorney Petitions to Establish Support, Reciprocal Support, and other non-dissolution custody proceedings.

PROBATE - Estate Probate, Trust Administration, Guardianship, and Conservatorship cases.

ADOPTION - Petitions for the adoption of a minor.

JUVENILE DEPENDENCY - Petitions to declare a juvenile to be a dependent or neglected child.

JUVENILE PETITIONS - Juveniles with petitions filed alleging the juvenile to be either delinquent or incorrigible. (See the definitions listed in the probation section of this Appendix for further information.)

Case Activity

TRANSFERRED IN - The number of cases (defendants in criminal cases) transferred in from another court. Cases in which a motion for new trial has been granted or a remand from an appellate court has been ordered are included in this category.

TRANSFERRED OUT - The number of cases (defendants in criminal cases) transferred out to another court.

STATISTICAL CORRECTION - The number of cases (defendants in criminal cases) added or subtracted in order to correct statistical inaccuracies. Such changes are often made after a court conducts a physical case inventory.

Proceedings

COURT TRIAL - The number of trials without a jury in which at least one witness has been sworn.

JURY TRIAL - The number of trials in which voir dire (questioning of prospective jurors) has commenced.

DEFAULT HEARING - A hearing in which one party has failed to enter an appearance, and the issues are decided without that party. Uncontested hearings are also counted here.

MEDICAL MALPRACTICE PANELS - The number of medical liability review panels commenced during the year.

MENTAL HEALTH HEARINGS - The number of hearings commenced to determine mental incapacity, grave disability, or danger to self and others.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE - Actions commenced under the domestic violence statutes (A.R.S. § 13-3601 et seq.).

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE (OSC) HEARING - "Contempt" hearings; hearings for temporary support or custody, restraining orders, and preliminary injunctions; and other pre- and post-judgment orders to show cause.

Municipal Court Caseload Statistical Definitions

The following definitions are included to provide the reader with a better understanding of what the caseload statistical data in this report represents. For all case categories, the statistical data reflects the number of case filings for the year.

Case Categories

CRIMINAL TRAFFIC - Major traffic violations contained in Title 28 of the Arizona Revised Statutes including driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor or drugs, reckless driving, and other serious moving violations. Also includes all violations of Arizona Corporation Commission Motor Carrier Rules and Regulations and the "Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility" statutes.

TRAFFIC FTA - An additional charge resulting from a defendant's failure to appear at a scheduled criminal traffic proceeding. (Failing to appear at a civil traffic hearing results in a default judgment being entered and is not included here.)

CIVIL TRAFFIC - Minor traffic violations contained in Title 28 of the Arizona Revised Statutes, including equipment offenses and a number of minor moving offenses that have been designated as civil traffic violations.

NON-TRAFFIC MISDEMEANOR - All non-traffic misdemeanors, i.e., those where the law provides for presumptive punishment that does not exceed six months incarceration and/or a fine of $1,000 for an individual or $20,000 for an enterprise.

MISDEMEANOR FTA - An additional criminal charge resulting from the defendant's failure to appear at a scheduled hearing for a non-traffic misdemeanor offense.

FELONY COMPLAINTS - Title 13 violations designated as felonies, i.e., those where the law provides for presumptive punishment of at least eighteen months incarceration and/or a fine of up to $150,000 for an individual or $1,000,000 for an enterprise. Traditionally these have been filed in the justice of the peace courts, but A.R.S. § 22-402B provides authority for municipal courts to conduct preliminary hearings in cases within their geographic jurisdiction to determine whether the defendant should be held for trial in the superior court.

Case Activity

TRANSFERRED IN - The number of cases transferred in from other courts.

TRANSFERRED OUT - The number of cases transferred out to other courts.

STATISTICAL CORRECTION - The number of cases added or subtracted in order to correct statistical inaccuracies. Such changes are often made after a court conducts a physical case inventory.

Proceedings

COURT TRIAL - The number of trials commenced without a jury.

JURY TRIAL - The number of trials commenced in which a jury was sworn.

CIVIL TRAFFIC HEARING - Traffic violation hearings held under the Rules of Procedure in Civil Traffic Violations Cases.

FELONY PRELIMINARY HEARING - A hearing to determine whether the defendant should be held for trial in the superior court on a felony complaint.

INITIAL APPEARANCE HEARING - The first court proceeding with the defendant present; it is held within 24 hours of arrest. The purposes are to inform the defendant of the charges and his rights, and to determine the conditions of release, if any.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE HEARING - Hearings held to revoke or modify a domestic violence Order of Protection.

HARASSMENT HEARING - A hearing held to revoke or modify an Injunction Prohibiting Harassment.

GENERAL INTRODUCTION

This report, The Arizona Courts: FY 89 Data Report, presents caseload information for all court levels, providing both statewide summary and detailed information on individual courts. It is intended to supplement the FY 89 Judicial Report for persons and agencies who are interested in or involved with budgeting, planning and administration for Arizona courts.

The term "FY 89" in this report refers to the period beginning July 1, 1988 and ending June 30, 1989. All tables reflect this fiscal year period.

REPORT FORMAT

The sections in this report include: appellate courts, superior court, adult probation, juvenile probation, justice of the peace courts and municipal courts. For easy reference, each section is identified by the appropriate heading centered on the page.

CASELOAD STATISTICS

Caseload statistics are compiled from monthly statistical reports submitted to the Supreme Court by the individual appellate, superior, justice of the peace and municipal courts. Incomplete or inconsistent information, where detected, is footnoted. While the statistics are checked for mathematical accuracy, they are unaudited. Justice of the peace and municipal court criminal statistics reflect "complaint filings", while superior court figures show the number of "defendants" charged.
